

NIAGARA PEACE BRIDGE OPENED TO PUBLIC

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION TO AID SAANICH

Gives Subsidy of $4,000 Towards Health Supervision

Unified Direction of Health Affairs Attained.

Saanich will be the first municipality in Western Canada to benefit from the entrance of the Rockefeller Foundation into public health work in Canada. On September 1 the present system of supervising public health, through three organizations will be abolished, the duties of Municipal Health Officer, Schools Medical Officer and Superintendent of the War Memorial Health Centre will be combined, and Dr. D. Berman, M.D., D.P.H., will take over the unified office.

To make way for the reorganization Dr. R. L. Miller recently resigned as Schools Medical Officer and on Wednesday evening the Saanich Council will have before it the resignation of Dr. C. Denton Holmes, Municipal Health Officer.

SUBSTANTIAL GRANT

The reorganization has been made possible by a grant of $4,000 per annum from the Rockefeller Foundation, arranged through the interest of Dr. H. E. Young, Secretary to the Provincial Board of Health. This grant is for the year 1927-28, and may be renewed for one or more years if the experiment proves successful. It is the experience of the Rockefeller Foundation that subsidizing given municipalities in the United States have only been necessary for a few years, the great betterment in health condition causing public opinion to support, through tax levies, the preventive health system initiated by the Rockefeller Foundation.

APPOINTEE CANADIAN

Dr. D. Berman, who will assume the duties of Municipal Health Officer, will have full control of all preventive health work in Saanich. He is a Canadian, a graduate of McGill University, married, and has two children. Dr. Berman, who has been in the medical service with a special post-graduate course in public health work, and was warmly recommended to Saanich and Dr. Young by the Rockefeller Foundation. To accept the Saanich post Dr. Berman surrenders charge of public health administration in a large district in West Virginia.

The health committee of the Saanich Council which has arranged the reorganization is as follows: Reeve W. Crouch, Councilors G. McCreedy, C. Oldfield and D. Miller (chairman), School Trustees Mrs. J. Beckett and R. Macmillan.

KELOWNA ALSO

The Rockefeller Foundation is also interested in public health administration in Kelowna. Negotiations are being carried on through Dr. H. E. Young, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, for extension of a subsidy similar to that accepted by Saanich.

COUGAR HUNTER SETS UP RECORD

Campbell River, B.C., Aug. 8.—Having killed twenty-three cougars since January 1, Edward Lee will be glad to learn if this is a provincial record. He came in with four large cougars last week. He reports that in the vicinity of Butte Trail, where they were shot, he found numerous remains of deer that had been killed by the big cats.

Southampton, Aug. 8.—Captain Courtney, British aviator, and his two companions, may start their transatlantic flight Tuesday. There is a distinct improvement in weather conditions. The Courtney machine is a Dornier aeroplane powered with two Napier motors.

PREPARES FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHT

On their return trip they plan to fly to Vienna, thus establishing a new distance mark. A plane escort is to accompany the fliers from the Irish coast far out to sea.

CITY WILL SAVE BY LOWER RATES

Will Cancel Unsold Debentures and Reissue at Lower Interest Rate

A saving of $37,775 will be effected by the city for ratepayers, as a result of leave obtained at the last session of the Provincial Legislature, in connection with interest on a large block of city bonds to be marketed next year to retire certain temporary treasury certificates.

The city applied for leave to cancel unsold debentures, with power to issue other debentures of a like amount, but at a lower rate of interest. The request was granted, and has now become part of the general terms of the Municipal Act, open to all municipalities wishing to take advantage of the lower prevailing rates of interest.

On March 1, 1928, an aggregate of $74,000 of ten-year six per cent treasury certificates of the city—maturity date 1938—will be due. These were secured by the hypothecation of certain unsold 5½ per cent debentures, and by a redemption fund which has been built up by the deposit each year of the amount of unsold debentures maturing.

In order to provide the funds with which to pay off these treasury certificates at maturity it will be necessary to sell the unsold debentures. Bonds which sell under par yield a relatively better price to the vendor than those of a premium, states Mr. Macdonald, due to the public dislike for buying an apparent shrinkage, despite higher interest rates.

"With this in mind the city approached the Legislature at its 1927 session and was successful in obtaining the general amendment in the Municipal Act, which gives a municipality leave to cancel any unsold debentures and issue in their place debentures of a like amount, but bearing a lower rate of interest and maturing at some date or dates," explains the City Comptroller.

"By taking advantage of this legislation and canceling the unsold 5½ per cent debentures, and issuing in their place new debentures at a lower rate of interest, the city will save $37,775."

SEES MARVELOUS GROWTH IN CITY

Wm. P. Lindley, Formerly of Times' Editorial Staff, Recalls Old Days

Former City Councils Would End Argument by Flight to Break Quorum

To drift back to a city after forty years' absence and note the remarkable changes wrought by time is a privilege not often given a writer. For as a rule writers die young. At least those who amount to much. However, William P. Lindley, who arrived back in Victoria on Sunday, was forty years ago a member of The Times staff, and gathered copy around the then somewhat different metropolises.

Mr. Lindley, speaking with a Times reporter, remarked on the marvelous advancement of Victoria.

There are folks who say Victoria has not made the tremendous strides of some of the lusty younger giants of the West. Still it is obvious to the visitor who was here many years ago that great changes have happened. Mr. Lindley mentioned that on Sunday afternoon he cruised around the outskirts of Victoria for many hours, but failed to recognize but few of the old landmarks. Of course Beacon Hill Park still holds its charm. This spot, while perhaps not so large or unattractively ornate as many parks, has a native attraction unbeatable by less favored sections. Climate and scenic advantages give it a peculiar power to please the eye. Once seen, never forgotten, and after a lapse of forty years it looks as charming as ever to the visitor.

Mr. Lindley is making a tour of the Pacific Northwest in the interests of The Pacific Marine Review, published in San Francisco. As workboat editor Mr. Lindley covers the Western Coast, making annual trips between San Diego on the south and Vancouver on the north. But he always likes to get back to Victoria, where he made his first efforts as a writer. In 1887 he was on The Times staff. Associated with him were Oscar Reiss, George Denny, who today is night editor of the Associated Press at the San Francisco headquarters.

The late Hon. William Templeman was manager.

AT CITY HALL

The ways of civic affairs were then somewhat different than they are for Mr. Lindley remembers when the late James Fell was mayor, and while he was a most kindly man and a fine type of a Britisher, he had opposition from some of the older men with the result that occasionally party feelings would get the better of discretion. In those days the weekly meetings of the board were held in a chamber at the city hall. There was a spiral staircase which led up from the lower floors, at the right of the mayor's seat. Sometimes when a dispute became so heated that the proponents of a measure saw they were in danger of being beaten, one of the minority would raise the call "Cork-crow," and there would be a bang for the spiral stairs, leaving the board without a quorum. It was great fun for the newspaper boys, and they made much of the matter.

"Then we had as mayor the late John Grant," said Mr. Lindley. "He was one of the most likeable men in the city."

NEW STRUCTURE OVER NIAGARA IS DEDICATED

Historic Event at Canada-United States Border River as Prince of Wales Dedicates New Link of Friendship Commemorating More Than a Century of Peace; Premier King Speaks for Canada; Premier Baldwin Points to Significance of the Event; Vice-President Dawes Represents United States

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 8.—A span of stone and steel across the Niagara River stood to-day officially dedicated to the continuance of more than a century of peaceful relations between the British Empire and the United States. Dedication ceremonies attended by the Prince of Wales, his youngest brother, Prince George, the Prime Minister of Canada, Vice-President Charles G. Dawes, of the United States, the Prime Minister of Great Britain, and the Premier of the Province of Ontario, Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg of the United States, Governor A. E. Smith of New York State, and other officials, brought to a successful conclusion seventeen years of effort to have the Niagara crossed at Buffalo by a vehicular bridge.

The keynote of the speeches at the exercises, which were held at the United States end of the bridge, yesterday afternoon, was the fact that the bridge stands upon the site of a battleground of the War of 1812. The United States terminal rests upon the site of Fort Porter, abandoned last year as a United States army post, while the Canadian end is but a short distance from the ruins of Fort Erie, famed for its historic part in the last war between the two nations.

The recent failure of The Three-Power Naval Conference at Geneva found a place in the addresses of the British and United States Government officials present at the exercises. It was the first time since the conference that high officials of the nations had been together, but Premier Baldwin and Senator Kellogg referred to it only indirectly in their addresses and then in the friendliest terms.

Vice-President Dawes, however, launched into a more extended discussion of the conference and its attending situation, but declared in conclusion that "the conference will only result in the stronger demand of the world that the work of interpreting the principle of equality in respect to ship programmes shall be continued until a fair agreement is reached."

Of the mutual friendly relations between the nations, Mr. Dawes declared "that the foundation of the great peace structure which we dedicate to-day rests on the firm bedrock of the Niagara and the peace of the English-speaking people is as firmly based upon common instincts and ideas."

The regret of President Coolidge at not being able to attend the dedication was voiced by Secretary Kellogg, who welcomed the presence of Premier Baldwin to United States soil for the first time during their present tour of Canada.

MINER AND SON DROWN IN RIVER NEAR NANAIMO

Nanaimo, Aug. 8.—A. W. Hodgson, miner of Extension, and his nine-year-old son, Lloyd, were drowned in Nanaimo River Sunday night in the presence of Mrs. Hodgson and children of the family. Hodgson could swim. It is believed he sacrificed his own life in efforts to save his son. The bodies were recovered this morning, ten feet apart, in nine feet of water.

The Hodgson family left their home Sunday to camp out all night on the bank of Nanaimo River, one mile from Extension and five miles south of here. At 9 o'clock Mr. Hodgson and Lloyd took a path to secure water from the river. He carried an electric torch as it was dark under the trees. Suddenly both disappeared.

Mrs. Hodgson saw them sink into the water, but was powerless to give aid, as she cannot swim. Afraid that a similar fate might befall her other children, she stayed beside the river bank with them all night. Her fear was that if she tried to go through the woods in the dark she might walk in a circle and arrive back at the river.

When she reported to police this morning at dawn, a search party had little difficulty in recovering the bodies. An inquest will be held.

FLAG DESIGN DEBATE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Government Offers to Enlarge Shield; Smuts Will Not Agree to That

Cape Town, S.A., Aug. 8 (Canadian Press Cable).—The violent political controversy over the design of the proposed new South African flag continues unabated and the Heriot's Government's latest offer to the Opposition to enlarge the shield on the proposed flag if that should bring about an agreement. This is declined by Gen. J. C. Smuts, leader of the South African Party, who says the Opposition does not regard the shield as a concession.

The only possible solution, he says, is to include in the main design the flag which has figured in the history of South Africa.

HASTE IS OPPOSED

"Our Natal friends," said General Smuts, "tell us that if they had known an effort would be made to pull down the Union Jack they would never have entered the Union. Of course they would not. That is why I say, go slowly."

The Opposition leader is counselling the people to vote against the Government in the referendum on the proposed flag design and keep the question open with a view to getting a really national flag by the consent of all.

AREAS ON PRAIRIES VISITED BY FROST

Garden Vegetables Suffer; Reports on Wheat Condition Are Awaited

Moore Jaw, Aug. 8.—All kinds of garden stuff in this city and the district surrounding it were badly blackened by frost last night. Two degrees of frost were registered at the meteorological station, but in the valley of the Moose Jaw River the damage to garden stuff indicates there was more frost in the low places. The damage is patchy on potatoes, cucumbers, beans, tomatoes and all vines.

Damage to the wheat crops may have resulted, but farmers whose gardens suffered were unable to state whether or not their wheat had been hit. The frost damage appears to have been slightly more severe where more rain fell on Saturday night.

LOSSES NOT SERIOUS

Regina, Aug. 8.—The Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture has received no report of extensive damage by frost to-day. Several correspondents report frost, particularly along the line from Moose Jaw to Swift Current and south of those points, the severest apparent being along the Weyburn-Lethbridge line between Assiniboia and Shaunavon. Garden produce suffered somewhat and damage to gardens is visible. The effect upon grain is undetermined and the extent of any damage also is at present unknown, but it is thought serious results, except perhaps in the case of individual farming lowlands, will not occur.

DELAYS IN LONDON RESULT FROM FALL OF COMMERCIAL ASSURANCE BUILDING

London, Aug. 8.—London had one of the worst traffic jams in its history to-day as the result of the collapse at midnight on Saturday of the Commercial Assurance Building at Cornhill, which is within a short distance of the Bank of England.

An alarming crack developed in the pavement in front of the building and it was feared for a time that the Royal Exchange Building, opposite the collapsed structure, might be endangered.

Cornhill is one of the main arteries between East and West London and also Lombard Street. Consequently its closing disorganized traffic badly with the resumption of business to-day after the week-end. Trips in the business section ordinarily taking five minutes took from half an hour to one hour longer this morning.

No one was injured in the collapse of the Assurance Building. The cause has not been determined.

DELAYS IN LONDON RESULT FROM FALL OF COMMERCIAL ASSURANCE BUILDING

London, Aug. 8.—London had one of the worst traffic jams in its history to-day as the result of the collapse at midnight on Saturday of the Commercial Assurance Building at Cornhill, which is within a short distance of the Bank of England.

An alarming crack developed in the pavement in front of the building and it was feared for a time that the Royal Exchange Building, opposite the collapsed structure, might be endangered.

Cornhill is one of the main arteries between East and West London and also Lombard Street. Consequently its closing disorganized traffic badly with the resumption of business to-day after the week-end. Trips in the business section ordinarily taking five minutes took from half an hour to one hour longer this morning.

No one was injured in the collapse of the Assurance Building. The cause has not been determined.

THORNTON ALSO BELIEVES GRAIN ELEVATOR WILL BE BUILT BY PRIVATE INTERESTS

New Westminster, Aug. 8.—Speaking at a Board of Trade luncheon here to-day, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railway, stated negotiations carried on by Valentine Quinn for the erection of a cold storage plant on Canadian National Railway property here had been practically completed and that it was expected construction work would be commenced soon.

He also expressed the belief that the arrangements that are proceeding for the construction of a $750,000 elevator here would be successful.

Sir Henry also stated his company's opposition to any blocking of river navigation as might be done on the Fraser River by the building of a bridge at Ladner.

He was formerly lieutenant-colonel commanding the Second Volunteer Battalion of the Worcestershire Regiment. He served with distinction during the Great War and was mentioned in dispatches.

FLAG DESIGN DEBATE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Government Offers to Enlarge Shield; Smuts Will Not Agree to That

Cape Town, S.A., Aug. 8 (Canadian Press Cable).—The violent political controversy over the design of the proposed new South African flag continues unabated and the Heriot's Government's latest offer to the Opposition to enlarge the shield on the proposed flag if that should bring about an agreement. This is declined by Gen. J. C. Smuts, leader of the South African Party, who says the Opposition does not regard the shield as a concession.

The only possible solution, he says, is to include in the main design the flag which has figured in the history of South Africa.

HASTE IS OPPOSED

"Our Natal friends," said General Smuts, "tell us that if they had known an effort would be made to pull down the Union Jack they would never have entered the Union. Of course they would not. That is why I say, go slowly."

The Opposition leader is counselling the people to vote against the Government in the referendum on the proposed flag design and keep the question open with a view to getting a really national flag by the consent of all.

Owing to the presence of thousands of Italians in the cane fields, the racial factor has entered into the dispute.

Eighty-five armed detectives watched the crowd while the Premier was speaking.

FLIES TO WORK IN MOSQUITO PLANE

Here's Flivver Ship That Fits Double Garage By Removing Centre Post and Does Forty Miles to Gallon of Gas, Landing on Golf Course or Anywhere

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 8.—In what is perhaps the smallest airplane in the world, Harry J. Brooks, test pilot at the Ford airport, in Dearborn, near here, has solved the commuting problem and the strap-hanging problem in perfect manner.

Brooks lives on a farm out of Birmingham, twenty miles by auto over the nearest road from the Dearborn airport. He makes the trip in about ten minutes in the flivver plane, using less than half a gallon of gas each way. Cruising, the plane will do forty miles to the gallon.

The farm had a garage to care for three cars. It never had any doors, so when Mr. Brooks began to use the Ford plane to bring him to work and home again, he took two posts out of the garage, and had a hanger, or whatever he wants to call it. He rolls in at night and in the morning starts the motor in the shed, taxis off and in ten minutes is at work at Dearborn.

Brooks has flown home, leaving the airport at 9 o'clock at night, flying without lights and landing without lights. He comes to work in the rain and has encountered very high winds, but never had to come down.

When Brooks wants to play golf at the Dearborn Country Club, he flies over to the course, lands on the fairway and taxis along the terrace to the clubhouse. He is one of the few pilots at the airport not trained in the army. Like Lindbergh, he tried parachute jumping for a while, receiving flying lessons in return.

The thirty horse-power plane has a wing span of twenty-two feet, is sixteen feet in length, weighs 370 pounds "light," has a wing area of ninety-seven square feet, and carries five gallons of gas. A French "Annam" engine, used by all old planes, is used in this

YOUTH AND POLITICS

To the Editor:—I note that one of the three young members of the law profession who spoke at a recent picnic used the following remarks:

"The qualification for a candidate in this Province seems to be a man with one foot in the grave. They don't seem to want young men to gain experience and give the necessary enthusiasm and energy so needed in the political life of the Province."

I am also a young man, although I have had nearly six years experience now in public life in a lesser degree, but I cannot appreciate the wisdom or the need of these remarks that I have just quoted.

If my friend knows political history at all he will realize that the best work of some of our brightest intellects in politics has been carried out when they had reached their prime or more. Might I quote the names of Lord Balfour, Lloyd George, Clemenceau, T. F. O'Connor, Sir John Macdonald, Alex. Mackenzie, W. E. Gladstone and last but not least, our present Premier, Hon. John Oliver.

King of Egypt is Honored by Pope

Rome, Aug. 8.—An event extremely unusual in the modern history of the Roman Catholic Church occurred yesterday when King Fuad of Egypt was formally received by Pope Pius in the Vatican. The Pope conferred upon the king the decoration of the Order of the Golden Spur, one of the highest in the church and held by only nine other persons.

SEES MARVELOUS CHANGE IN CITY

and though opposed by many was elected by big majorities and made a most wonderful mayor. He had been one of the old-timers in Cariboo, but in spite of this he was a most courtly gentleman. Mr. Lindley remembers when Mayor Grant extended the welcome of Victorians to the Duke of Connaught, the Cariboo miner doing the honors with the grace and dignity of a courtier. Mayor Grant was also chairman of the Queen's Jubilee celebration. Charles Kent, at that time, city treasurer, was treasurer of the committee, and Mr. Lindley was secretary. Sir Michael Culme Seymour was Admiral of the Fleet, and with his officers and crews did a great deal to make the celebration a great one. People came from all sections of the Northwest to Victoria for this annual event, made particularly notable from the fact it was a "Jubilee" one that year.

"Then we had the Fire Chief's Convention here one time," said Mr. Lindley in his reminiscences. "The Deputy was then chief of the Victoria department, a volunteer organization for the most part. Besides his duties as an official, he attended to some work for the city authorities. The buildings were old and filthy, a disgrace to the city, besides being very unsanitary. Chief Deputy was, with the then Superintendent of Police Sheppard, ordered to see all occupants out of a section of several blocks. If I remember rightly it was between Cormorant and Chalmers Streets, and Douglas and Store. The residents had been given several weeks to prepare for the purification by fire. But at that we boys made a last survey before we started things and found several old Chinks who were loath to leave their hovels. When we were sure all were out, a liberal dosage of coal oil and shavings were fired at several points at once. Lines of hose had been laid to prevent spreading, and the flames soon wiped out an eyesore. One building in particular, a big wooden one, used as a theatre, made a remarkably effective feature. In fact the folks over in Seattle and Puget Sound ports who saw the depiction of the blaze, thought Victoria was burning up and wired the Mayor to ask did we need any assistance. We were all neighbors on the Straits in those days, and when Seattle had its 'big fire' a part of Victoria's brigade went over to help them out."

WHARF STREET SAME
Mr. Lindley says he found Wharf Street not much changed. But out around the Bay and the Gorge district many physical features are different.

The old Indian Reservation, for one thing, is gone. Fills have been made and new streets constructed, showing the advancement of business there. The old James Bay Bridge is gone, and there were shacks occupied by "squaw men," with an offensive shore line, there is now one of the world's most luxurious hotels, the Empress. Mr. Lindley formerly lived on Bird Cage Walk, just across the bridge, but the site is now occupied by the stately Parliament Buildings.

He also remembers the old buildings, and did reportorial work at the sessions there, when the late Hon. John Robson was Provincial Secretary and the late Robert Dunsmuir a member of Parliament.

It would require a volume to detail the many changes noticed. The Hudson's Bay Company store down on the waterfront has gone and has been replaced by a palatial modern department store up town. In the old one Indians would gather to barter their furs and wares. In the modern one silken-clad ladies stroll through aisles of merchandise from all parts of the globe. Well lighted and spacious, the new store is a most noticeable different from the old one, with its narrow windows and smell of rum, furs and Indians.

HARBOR CHANGES
One of the most outstanding physical changes noted by Mr. Lindley is the Outer Wharf section. The big stone piers are equal to any port of the world, he says, and he has been most of them. Mr. Lindley having been a rover for most of his sixty-odd years. By profession he is a shipbuilder and engineer, and served through the late World War as a lieutenant-commander in the U.S. Naval Reserves. He made two trips overseas, once being captured by a German destroyer. He was later detailed to shore duty and was in charge of installation of machinery and trial trips of a fleet of submarines and destroyers built by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at San Francisco. After the war was over he did not again take up active sea work. Knowing ships and engines, he was selected by the publisher of Pacific Marine Review to conduct a department on that magazine. He says he is glad that the early training on The Times makes it possible for him to do this, as to be idle would wear him out.

With Mr. Lindley is his wife, an Australian lady. She is renewing old friendships while here, calling on many of them. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Gardiner being among them. Mr. Lindley had the honor, many years ago, of writing the account of Charles's wedding to the then Miss Pauline. They tell him they treasure the clipping to this day.

Down in the sunny valley of Santa Clara, California, Mr. Lindley has a lovely orchard home, named "Calaustral," situated in Los Altos, some forty miles south of San Francisco. To any Victorians the latch string is always out.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindley will motor to Nanaimo Saturday and cross to Vancouver on his tour.

GEN. LEONARD WOOD FUNERAL TO-MORROW

letin, although failing to state the exact nature of the operation, indicated it was for a recurrence of a tumor which had been removed seventeen years ago. The growth at the time of the first operation was found to have involved the bone of the skull, the statement said, and "recurrence of the trouble was anticipated."

General Wood was operated on for a hernia in Manila last January and had come East for treatment as soon as he felt conditions in the islands justified his absence. Dr. Lambert added.

DEATH IS MOURNED
Zamboanga, P.I., Aug. 8.—The sudden death yesterday of General Leonard Wood has thrown the entire Philippine population into a state of mourning. A half million Mohammedans, United States citizens, were gripped at the news, declaring: "We've lost our father—our best friend. There is no hope for Islam."

The Moros are preparing to enter a period of intensive mourning, say dispatches from Cotabato, Lanao and Sulu.

The spectacular rise of Major-General Leonard Wood from an obscure post in the medical corps to a commanding rank in the combat branch of the United States Army was one of the outstanding features of American military annals. Appointed an assistant surgeon several years prior to the Spanish-American War, Wood rose to the foremost rank of United States generals, his active duty culminating in the Governor-Generalship of the Philippine Islands after he had served four years as Chief of the Philippine Army, the top-most military command.

While his rapid promotion, ascribed largely to his close friendship with President Roosevelt, was the subject of frequent criticism in military circles, General Wood's service was recognized throughout the establishment as the highest type. His first official commendation for gallantry came during the hostilities with the Apache Indians in 1885, when he was given the Congressional Medal of Honor for bravery, and his work throughout the World War, limited as it was from the general's standpoint, won him the Distinguished Service Medal. "For especially meritorious and conspicuous service."

FRIEND OF PRESIDENTS
General Wood was the friend and upon many momentous occasions the confidant of three United States Presidents—Cleveland, McKinley and Roosevelt. When the first named was elected in 1892 he selected General Wood for assignment to the White House as physician and aide to the President, an appointment he continued to fill when McKinley came into office.

As a result of the close friendship that sprang up between himself and Theodore Roosevelt, then Assistant Secretary of the Navy, it was General Wood who was chosen to command the "Rough Riders" of the Spanish-American War, recruited by Roosevelt from among the frontiersmen and cowboys of the plain states in the outfit. Roosevelt contented himself with the subordinate rank of lieutenant-colonel. His promotion to the rank of brigadier-general of United States Volunteers came in July, 1898.

GOVERNOR OF CUBA
After the Spanish-American War he was made military governor of the island of Cuba. His jurisdiction over Cuba ended in 1902, when he turned the government over to the first Cuban President.

The admiration Mr. Roosevelt bore for General Wood had been materially increased through their association on the battlefield, consequently there was no great surprise when the latter was nominated to the rank of general officer in the regular army shortly after Roosevelt entered the White House upon the death of President McKinley. From 1901 until 1906, during which time he was again promoted, this time to the rank of major-general in the regular establishment, General Wood was busy straightening out Cuban affairs, serving as governor of Moro Province in the Philippines and later attending European army manoeuvres as official observer of the United States. From 1908 to 1910 he commanded the Eastern Department in the United States, and in the latter year was sent to Argentina as special envoy of the Government.

CHIEF OF STAFF
Subsequently, when Elihu Root was Secretary of War and undertook the creation of an army general staff, he depended largely upon the advice and theories worked out by Gen. Wood. When the law was enacted, creating the staff, Wood became the first chief, and thus set in motion the machinery upon which the Government placed its main reliance in the war preparations of 1917.

Previous to and also in the early days of the European War, Gen. Wood repeatedly risked censure from the War Department because of his untiring efforts to promote national defence and preparedness measures in the Eastern Department, which he then commanded. It was his personal influence alone that resulted in the establishment of civilian training camps at Gettysburg and the Presidio in 1913, and again due to his efforts that both camps blossomed out in the "Plattling" idea of civilian military training in 1917. Gen. Wood had the satisfaction of seeing more than 4,000,000 men trained under the theories first applied at his civilian camps, and he also accepted the responsibility of establishing some thirty divisional camp sites throughout the country.

TRAINED DIVISION
By his own selection, Gen. Wood was assigned to train and command the 89th Division, then stationed at Camp Funston, whereupon he threw himself into the task with all his energy and enthusiasm that had marked his war-wounded army career. While he might readily have expected as senior officer of the army, to be given command of the forces sent to France, if he felt any chagrin at the selection of an officer so much his junior in the service as Gen. Pershing, it was not reflected in his work at Camp Funston.

HARDING NOMINATION
In 1920, when the Republican National Convention assembled at Chicago and began voting on the long list of candidates before it, the trend showed General Wood had a tremendous following throughout the country, and it was not until the convention, long deadlocked over the contending candidates—decided to turn to Senator Harding in the emergency that the possibility of his nomination for the presidency was seriously considered.

After Harding's election, the problem of the Philippines presented itself again for solution, and it was to General Wood that President Harding turned for help. In the meantime, however, the officer had been honored in striking fashion when the trustees of the Uni-

STANDARD OIL JOINS GERMANS TO PRODUCE GASOLINE FROM COAL

New York, Aug. 8.—Negotiations which have been going on between the German dye trust and W. C. Teague, president of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, have resulted in an agreement being reached between the two for the exchange and co-operation in the development of patents for the manufacture of synthetic gasoline from lignite.

University of Pennsylvania offered him the post of Provost of that institution and he decided to accept. His decision meant either that he must resign from the army or defer his acceptance until he was eligible for retirement, and after much deliberation he decided upon the latter course.

This meant a delay of several months, and during the interval he was induced, with the acquiescence of the university authorities, to accept the post of Governor-General of the Philippines for one year. General Wood found much to do in the islands, his arrival there being shortly after his ever, and announced shortly after the beginning of 1923 at the earliest. Again the indulgence of the university officials in his leave from the school was granted, extending until such time as his insular duties could be concluded.

In December 1922, General Wood, although never installed as provost, formally resigned that office "so that he might comply with the wishes of the administration and remain as Governor-General of the Philippine Islands."

MANITOBA MAN DIED OF BULLET WOUNDS

Winnipeg, Aug. 8.—Nels Sanderson, blacksmith, died in a hospital here today from bullet wounds received at Starbuck, Man., last night. Mrs. Andrew Holm is being detained by the police. Sanderson went to the Holm residence last night and when he was about to enter, a shotgun was fired at him.

The tragedy occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Holm on their farm four miles southwest of Starbuck.

On Sunday night a resident of Starbuck was telephoned. When he answered an excited woman's voice cried over the line: "Send us help. There's a man shot. Send for the police. Don't delay."

The man aroused neighbors and they went to the Holm farm after notifying the provincial police at Winnipeg.

On arrival they found Sanderson lying on a couch in a grave condition and they immediately secured an ambulance and took him to a Winnipeg hospital, where he died this morning. The police found the Holm farmhouse in a confused state. There had been a few friends in for the evening and the gathering had remained until a late hour.

What led to the shooting no one seems to be able to state or to give a clear story. The police, after making careful inquiries, decided to bring Mrs. Holm into Winnipeg.

Sanderson, who was about thirty-five years of age, was well-known in the district and respected, and he had been engaged in the blacksmithing trade for nine years.

Vancouver, Aug. 8.—Capt. Thomas A. Tidy, sixty-seven, city fire warden, who was a member of the staff of the Vancouver Fire Department for thirty-four years, died in a hospital here Saturday after a brief illness. He was born in Ontario and came to Vancouver in 1889.

ANOTHER LINK OF PEACE

SEVERAL MONUMENTS, ALONG THE international boundary already mark the long years of peaceful association which have been enjoyed by Canada and the United States. Another received its dedication yesterday. It takes the form of a great bridge connecting Port Erie in Ontario with Buffalo in the State of New York. We may describe it as a new reminder that friendly contact still endures and is likely to do so.

The ceremony which took place yesterday was of a very interesting nature because of the distinguished company present. Leading the representatives of Canada, of course, was Mr. Mackenzie King, the Prime Minister, while General Charles G. Dawes, Vice-President of the United States, and Mr. Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State, were the principal officials from the neighboring republic. Great Britain's part was played by Premier Stanley Baldwin, the Prince of Wales and Prince George, as befitting the occasion, occupying the roles of special ambassadors of international good-will.

Premier King struck a happy note when he referred to the exchange of ministers between Canada and the United States and described the bridge which now spans the Niagara as another guarantee of "perpetual peace between these two great peoples." Adding point to this, General Dawes reminded the assembly that the foundations of the structure rested upon the firm bedrock of the Niagara, just as "the peace of the English-speaking peoples is as firmly based upon common instincts and ideals." The occasion afforded Mr. Baldwin an opportunity to make some reference to the unfortunate termination of the Geneva Conference; but, as was to be expected, his observations were reassuring. He contended, and General Dawes found no difficulty in agreeing with him, that the method of settlement of many problems in which the British Empire and the United States might become involved nearly always would vary; yet the most serious thing that could be said about recent events was that "we have had to differ for a moment." The British Prime Minister, indeed, was able to point to the new connecting link as another assurance that peace between the Empire and the United States never would be endangered because individual points of view at times might be at variance; because, Mr. Baldwin declared, "all bridges are the proof of friendship."

It was this note of peace and mutual understanding that dominated yesterday's ceremony. What has just taken place at Geneva was relatively unimportant in comparison with the fact that more than a century has passed without armed conflict between Canada and the United States. Here lies the proof that "common instincts and ideals" have stood the test of time and will continue to do so.

FOREST TRAIL TO MOTOR ROAD

THE HEADING OF THIS ARTICLE MAY sound like an exaggerated description of the progress since Confederation in Canadian roads, but it is not. It is true that in 1867 some of the old forest trails had been transformed into more or less satisfactory roads, but it is also true that in many parts of Canada the forest trail was still the only thoroughfare, and that, comparatively speaking, roads of any sort, that is to say roads practicable for wheeled vehicles, were few and far between.

To get the romance of Canadian roads one has to go back to the early history of the country, to the old post roads of New France following the banks of the St. Lawrence from Quebec to Montreal; to the portage paths that connected one navigable waterway with another; to the famous roads of Upper Canada, Young Street, Dundas Street, the York Road, the Kempt Road and the Baldon Road. These were linked up in time with the highways of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, and fifty years before the birth of the Dominion a practicable highway though a poor one according to the standards of to-day, was available from Halifax clear through to Amherstburg. Branch roads ran from this trunk line to the more important centres of population, but, as already suggested, there were, even in 1867, still many more forest trails than roads in what is now Canada. To this earlier period belongs also the famous Cariboo Road of British Columbia which led to the goldfields.

To get some idea of the progress of the country in this means of transportation, it may be mentioned that at Confederation there were approximately 20,000 miles of roads in Canada. To-day there are 378,269 miles, ranging from unimproved earth roads to bituminous or cement concrete roads. Of these Saskatchewan has the largest mileage of unimproved earth roads, Alberta of improved roads, and Ontario of the higher grade roads.

The construction of modern, well-constructed highways is a comparatively recent development, and is due more than anything else to the rapid increase in the use of automobiles, and particularly their use for economic purposes. As men, both in the towns and the country, began to realize that they could save time and money by using the motor car they discovered at the same time that if they were to get any real use out of the new means of locomotion they must have better roads. Pressure was brought to bear upon the legislature, both directly and through various Good Roads associations, with the result that inevitably follows a concerted movement on the part of the public.

As a result of this movement the various provincial governments began to devote larger sums than had been dreamed of in the past to the construction of up-to-date highways, and in 1919 the Dominion Parliament came to the rescue with the Canada Highways Act, which provided the sum of $20,000,000, to be apportioned to the various provinces on an equitable basis to assist in the improvement of the highways of the Dominion. This expenditure, which was spread over a term of years, has had a most beneficial effect. In fact it may be said to-day the country is practically a unit in its determination to see that every cent of population in the Dominion shall at the earliest practicable moment be connected by means of a good serviceable road with every other centre. How far this ambition has been already realized may be judged from a study of the motor road maps.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE

MANY PEOPLE IN THE CITY WHO have thermometers have been somewhat perplexed at times by the radical differences between temperatures recorded on their own instruments and those in the daily reports of the meteorological department on Gonzales Heights. Some, feeling that a government record must be infallible, thought something was wrong with their thermometers, if not with the weather. Others feared they were afflicted with failing vision. Others still suspected misrepresentation to delude unwary tourists, while there were, of course, who blamed the newspapers. People who do not have thermometers, and who after perspiring freely all day found on reading the official weather reports that the temperature was in its early seventies or late sixties, feared there was something seriously wrong with themselves. They concluded they were eating too much—or otherwise they would not have felt so warm when the temperature was only seventy-two degrees.

The mystery is easily explained. Often there is a marked difference between the temperature on Gonzales Heights, where the official records are made and which usually catches an ocean breeze, and other parts of the city. During the recent warm spell on some days it was six or eight degrees cooler on the Heights than it was in town, where the temperature was about the same as it was in the neighboring cities. So there is no need of challenging the accuracy of thermometers or the press, or of suspecting some serious bodily ailment when we perspire copiously in the city and find Gonzales recording a cool seventy-two degrees. Victoria's climate is so good that we can afford to make this explanation without any reserve.

OUR TRADE

CANADA'S FAVORABLE TRADE BALANCE with the rest of the world, and particularly with the United States, is not as large as it was two or three years ago; but there is nothing in this to worry about. It is merely an indication that the Canadian people are better able to buy more now than they were, for instance, in the first six months of 1925. The more even balance between exports and imports is indeed a sign of prosperity, especially in view of the fact that trade under both heads still continues to increase.

During the twelve months which ended on June 30 Canada did business amounting to $34,563,478 more than in the previous year, the total value of exports and imports being $2,346,335,236. It is interesting to compare these figures with those for the 1914 period, when the total stood at only $1,074,631,222, or those for 1922, when this had grown to $1,501,731,341. These comparisons at least show how quickly we advanced from the billion dollar turnover to considerably more than double that amount. If that means anything at all, it means that the time is not far distant when the three-billion-dollar mark will have been reached.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CANADA'S MANUFACTURERS
From The New York Sun

The statistical department of the Canadian Pacific Railway continues to give encouraging records of the progress of manufacturing in the Dominion. At the end of 1926 there were 22,331 manufacturing establishments in the Dominion, with capital of $3,808,289,981 invested, employing 544,014 individuals and paying them $698,015,171. The gross value of production was $2,948,543,315 to which the value added by manufacture was $1,360,879,907. The average value of production for each establishment was $132,668. In value of production Ontario leads the Dominion by a wide margin, with a total of $1,527,154,000, or approximately fifty-two per cent. of the Dominion aggregate. Quebec follows with $829,869,787, or about twenty-seven per cent. of the Canadian total. Following in order come British Columbia, Manitoba, Alberta, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island. Of the total Dominion production $488,139,287, or about fifteen per cent., is attributable to the four Western Provinces. The development of manufacturing in Western Canada has been striking. In two years the value of the products increasing by $98,811,253, which amounts to almost twenty-five per cent.

Canadian Questions and Answers

COAL PRODUCTION IN CANADA

Q. What was Canada's coal production in 1926?

A. Canada's coal output in 1926 dropped below the total reported in the preceding year, due largely to losses sustained through labor troubles in the eastern maritime provinces in the latter part of the year. Production amounted to 13,194,968 tons, as compared with 13,638,197 tons mined in 1925. Nova Scotia mines, in which the output losses were greatest, produced only 3,842,976 tons of coal in 1926, as compared with a total of 5,507,441 tons in 1925, and yielded first place among the coal-producing provinces for Alberta, the western rival.

CONFEDERATION AND AFTER Sixty Years of Progress

No. 68
SIR GEORGE ETIENNE CARTIER
One of the first names to be mentioned on the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee of the Confederation of Canada is that of Sir George Etienne Cartier.

Sir George Etienne was born on September 6, 1814, at St. Antoine, County of Vercheres, the son of a farmer. Lieutenant-Colonel Jacques Cartier. Sir George Etienne took his classical course at the Montreal seminary. He was admitted to the Bar in 1835, took part in the insurrection of 1837, notable in the fighting of St. Denis. In 1843 Cartier accepted the nomination for Vercheres County and represented it until 1861. After having twice refused a portfolio, he became in 1856, provincial secretary of the Quebec-Tacche ministry. In the following year his party, by an unanimous vote, called him to the Conservative leadership for Lower Canada. In 1858 he formed the Cartier-Macdonald Cabinet, which lasted four years. Beaten on the militia question, he was leader of the opposition in 1862. The second Cartier-Macdonald Cabinet was formed. This government formed that coalition with the Liberals

CIVIL EMPLOYEES SUPERANNUATION

To the Editor:—The blandness of the proposal to superannuate civil officials at the age of fifty, and some at fifty-five and sixty, at a starting annual cost of $20,000, is nothing less than amazing, but not more so than the apathy of the rank and file in permitting themselves (far less fortunate in the struggle for existence) to be burdened with an increased load, in order to make life easier for a favored class who have had the best opportunity in steady employment, to save for the evening of life, and that, too, when the Dominion and Province are joining in putting into effect an Old Age Pension Act, to apply to all at the age of seventy, irrespective of class.

The proposal cannot apply to those most in need of it, the transient city employees.

The political aspect is, that it ensures the support at the polls of the beneficiaries for those promoting it.

In view of the obligations incurred by the passage of the three last bills it would be well for the taxpayers to be officially informed, what increase in the tax rate will be necessary to cover them, and the superannuation proposed on the assumption of all the obligations of the same maturing, and the amount required for each one separately.

Last year the fixed annual charges of the city were increased $28,000 to cover all round increases in civic employees' salaries, and this in spite of the continued reduction in the cost of living.

CRANKS AND VIVISECTION

To the Editor:—There are but few men who have the courage of vivisection, for it needs no champions. It is a time proven scientific practice endorsed and employed by the finest medical minds that have ever existed. But when one reads letters recently published in your paper which show an utter disrespect for the practice and to some degree for all scientists in general one cannot help but utter a few words in defence for a practice that has actually done so much for the advancement of medical science, lest the masses influenced by such sophistry doubt the scientific and moral advancement and would retrogress towards the thought and spirit of the Dark Ages.

Vivisection is a firmly established means of medical scientific investigation and do what you will, plead how you may for humanity, strive how you will, all scientific progress is still truth to be sought man will seek it employing whatever means he may and proceed quite unmoved either by the protest of the groans of fanaticism, or by fanaticism itself and like it, will probably always exist. But how many anti-vivisectionists even understand how their daily food is digested let alone the function of the human pancreas? Very few, indeed, and yet they are ready to criticize the methods employed by men who know the human body and the functions of its various organs. But how many anti-vivisectionists even understand how their daily food is digested let alone the function of the human pancreas? Very few, indeed, and yet they are ready to criticize the methods employed by men who know the human body and the functions of its various organs. How many of these ardent animal lovers have ever actually witnessed these inhuman, barbarous atrocities committed in the modern

SILVERSMITH BEARS ATTACKED BY WHITE

Silversmith, under bear attack, has declined to twenty-five cents. Sloan King is also slightly off from its recent price of twenty-five cents, selling on the curb, locally at around twenty cents.

From Spokane comes a circular prepared by the Northwest Mining Investment Company, the organization through which the John B. White interests of Spokane do their financing. The circular, which is headed "The White Organization," is a long and detailed account of the mining properties of the White organization, and the various companies promoted by Mrs. Kingsbury.

The Wallace Press Times, in a recent number, attacked Silversmith and Sloan King merger proposals. Copies of the paper are being broadcast to Silversmith stock holders in British Columbia. The White interests accuse Kingsbury of mailing the sheets to the stocks of companies promoted by Mrs. Kingsbury.

HAVING TOO LATE

Haying, generally, starts too late, believe crop specialists at the University of New Hampshire. Early cutting saves its high feed value, although the hay cures more easily if mowed late.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, AUGUST 8, 1902

The Douglas Summer gardens present a very animated scene to-day. The occasion is the first annual flower show of the Victoria Horticultural Association, and the large number of visitors saw a large display of tastefully arranged flowers.

H.M.S. Amphion dropped anchor in Esquimalt Harbor at daybreak this morning, and officers and crew are glad to find themselves in Victoria again after their long cruise in the much-too-sunny South.

To-morrow is Coronation Day. It has been proclaimed a public holiday, and will be officially and generally observed as such in this city.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Light to moderate winds; continued fine and warm.

The warm weather is apparently drawing nails out of the plank sidewalk. On some parts of Yates Street walk there are two or three regiments of them protruding with almost military regularity.

VANZETTI PROTESTS HEARD IN LONDON

Several Thousand Shared in Demonstration Against Executions at Boston

Demonstrations Also in Montreal, Winnipeg and Other Cities

London, Aug. 8.—Several thousand Sacco and Vanzetti sympathizers yesterday paraded from Trafalgar Square to the United States Embassy in Grosvenor Gardens, with the avowed purpose of asking Ambassador B. Houghton to forward resolutions of protest against the forthcoming executions of the condemned men to President Coolidge and Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts.

Strong forces of mounted police accompanied the demonstrators, who marched to the embassy in a body. The Embassy was found to be heavily guarded by police. Three delegates from among the paraders were admitted and subsequently six more were allowed to enter. After a short interval, all of them came out and the spokesman announced to the crowd that the people they wanted to see were reported to be away. The spokesman declared they did not propose to accept this statement from the Embassy, but would make a further demonstration in Hyde Park. The procession was then reformed and marched to the park, where speeches were delivered.

DECLARED AGAINST WAR

The Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration was combined with a "No More War" demonstration. It started on the Embankment by the Thames and the marchers proceeded toward Trafalgar Square.

The paraders carried banners bearing such inscriptions as "Open the Prison Doors for Sacco and Vanzetti," and "Save Sacco and Vanzetti from the Electric Chair." Heading the procession was a veteran of the World War, seated in an electric chair, with a black cap over his face. He wore across his breast the medals which he had won in service.

The principal speaker was Tom Mann, extremist laborer. He attacked the British Government on many matters, and in speaking about Sacco and Vanzetti declared their whole aim was their objection to capitalist society.

The demonstrators adopted resolutions condemning what was characterized as the sentence of death. One resolution called upon the British Labor Party and the Trades Union Council to exert their whole strength to save the "two victims of class justice."

PROTEST IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Aug. 8.—A resolution protesting against the judicial murder of Sacco and Vanzetti was passed unanimously at a meeting of the Montreal central committee of the Canadian Labor Defence League at a meeting of that body here.

Five thousand members attended the meeting. As each member entered the hall, a red ribbon, emblem of the league, was handed him with a circular which read "Sacco and Vanzetti must not die."

PROTESTS IN PARIS

Paris, Aug. 8.—Five thousand manifestants, carrying hundreds of red flags, marched outside the gate of Paris into the Bois de Vincennes, where yesterday afternoon they held a demonstra-

OAK STREET CASE PROVES HUSKY IS HEALTH BUILDER

Winnipeg, Aug. 8.—Resolutions of protest, calling upon President Coolidge to stay the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, Boston radicals under sentence of death, were passed at several meetings held here over the week-end.

Vancouver, Aug. 8.—Protest against the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, scheduled for Wednesday at Boston, was registered by Vancouver sympathizers at a mass meeting last evening.

On motion of Alderman A. MacInnes, chairman, a wire of protest was sent to Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts.

A. T. WALKER DIED IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 8.—Arthur T. Walker of Brooklyn, N.Y., who inherited the greater part of the estate of the late Edward F. Seales, Methuen multi-millionaire, died suddenly last night at the Seales mansion at Windham, N.H. He was stricken with an attack of acute indigestion.

Walker had been confidential adviser of Seales, who died 40 his Methuen estate on August 6, 1920. Immediately after the filing of the will of the eccentric millionaire, leaving most of his estate to Walker and comparatively small amounts to relatives, a contest was started.

Victor Seales, his nephew, sought to break the will on the ground that Seales was of unsound mind when he signed the document and was subjected to undue influence. The contest finally was settled out of court and it was understood Victor Seales was given close to $1,000,000.

Last February suit for $15,000,000 was filed against the Seales estate by Joseph E. Ellison, formerly of Bradford, Ontario, who had been employed by Seales as a youth in Methuen. Ellison claimed Seales had promised to provide liberally for him in his will. A jury decided against him.

Violent Deaths in Eastern Canada

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—Edward Feucht, forty-one, and his nephew, William Feucht, fifteen, both of Detroit, were drowned Saturday afternoon while swimming in the St. Clair River near Windsor, Ont. in one of a series of tragedies which occurred in Eastern Canada over the week-end.

In other accidents, including automobile and motorcycle mishaps, six persons were killed and eighteen injured.

Victoria Woman Was Ex- tremely Weak and Ner- vous, Generally Run Down; Husky Gives Her New Health and Strength

As thousands of men and women in every section of Victoria and the surrounding country turn to Husky, the herb preparation, and through its use gain new health, you hear praise on every side for this wonderful medicine, now distributed by the McFarlane Drug Company. With the purpose in view of giving suffering men and women a preparation that would relieve stomach, liver, kidney and bowel ailments by strengthening these organs in a natural way, years were spent in research work before the Husky formula was compounded. That Husky gives this relief and strengthens the body is being conclusively proven time and again each day in Victoria.

MRS. PEARL SHRYOCK

This woman is now happy and healthy, thanks to Husky. Before she started the Husky treatment it was a different story, however, as she was afflicted with indigestion, constipation and habitual headaches.

One of the many cases in Victoria in which Husky's extraordinary merit has been well proven is that of Miss Madeline Purser 3231 Oak Street, who tells of her own experience as follows:

"I was extremely weak and nervous and my health was in a general run-down condition. Not only did my food fail to digest well, but I seldom felt like eating. I was listless and felt draggy. I didn't sleep well at night and often felt as tired in the morning as when I had retired."

"The Husky treatment has benefited me very much and I am glad to tell others that Husky is a fine health builder because it has strengthened me in every way. I really have energy now and am enjoying a good appetite."

Call at McFarlane's Drug Store, Husky headquarters, and let an expert from the Husky Laboratories explain this medicine to you. When thousands in Victoria are gaining new health through the Husky treatment, you can rest assured that it will also help you. (Advt.)

CANKER ERADICATION ENDS APPLE BLOTCH

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 8.—By cutting off cankers in nursery stock, scientists have found a way to combat the destructive apple blotch disease.

This method of eradication has been the aim of the botanists at Purdue University agricultural experiment station here and has so far proved highly successful. Dr. Max W. Gardner, associate botanist at the station, reports that apple trees treated for three years finally grew fruit without a sign of apple blotch, even though left unsprayed.

Apple blotch infection, explains Gardner, comes from cankers in the bark, and it is by means of the cankers in nursery stock that the disease finds its way into the orchard.

A campaign against canker was begun in 1922 in young Dutchess orchards near Vincennes, Ind. The cankers were shaved off the bark, cankered spurs and branches were pruned off, and Bordeaux sprays applied often.

Each Spring thereafter the trees were inspected for the cankers that were overlooked or invisible previously, and these also were shaved off with a sharp knife. Bordeaux sprays were applied before the fruit appeared.

In 1925, the fourth season after the canker eradication campaign was begun, the special blotch sprays were omitted from some of these trees. No blotch was found on any of the apples grown on them. Last year the same trees were again left unsprayed, and again the apples came off without a blotch.

This is considered good evidence of the effectiveness of blotch canker eradication in young orchards.

B.C. TIMBER NOW BEST INVESTMENT MILLIONAIRE SAYS

Vancouver, Aug. 8.—John Henry Kirby, distinguished son of Texas, owner of sawmills, oil wells, cattle ranches and timber limits, is now in British Columbia.

Though nearly seventy years of age, Mr. Kirby looks like a man of fifty. Says George M. Murray, editor of the Western Lumberman, in a special article in the Vancouver Evening Sun: "He is over six feet in height and is of the lean build of manhood produced in certain parts of the southern pine country. He was born in the backwoods, spent his youth driving oxen and doing farm work, and became a lawyer after leaving the farm. From law to industrial activities was a short step. In addition to being worth probably $40,000,000, Kirby has been prominently mentioned as a candidate for the presidency of the United States. He is one of the most eloquent men in the south and he writes English after the style of Benjamin Franklin."

Vancouver business men were somewhat surprised recently to hear Roger Babson wind up an address with an appeal that the business community bring more of the spirit of Christ into the market place and workshop.

TWO GREATEST CHARTERS
John Henry Kirby has a philosophy of life which would please Mr. Babson. When asked at the Hotel Vancouver what were in his opinion the greatest documents ever written, Kirby replied:

"I believe that the constitution of the United States and the Sermon on the Mount are the two great charters of liberty, the one giving me my civil liberty and the other the liberty of the soul."

At this point Mr. Kirby reached into his breast pocket and drew forth a worn leather wallet and from it produced two small books.

"For thirty years," he said, "I have carried on my person copies of the Constitution and of the Sermon on the Mount. I carry them near the heart, for to me they are indeed sacred."

Last Christmas Mr. Kirby gave each of his 6,000 employees an unusual gift. He had a special edition of the King James Version of the Holy Bible—with an introductory chapter by John Henry Kirby, written only as the Texas could do the job. He gave a copy of the edition to each of his employees.

BUSINESS BETTER

"Now, as regards the lumber business in British Columbia," Mr. Kirby said, "it is to-day in much better shape than ever before. The future of this great industry one must consult the records of the past."

"I can best illustrate by telling you of an event fifty years ago. A trader came to our settlement selling an iron sewing machine. Mother and sister believed that they needed that sewing machine more than anything else. They pleaded with father to buy it. But father had no money—just corn and cattle and mules and timber. Yes, timber was the natural enemy of progress in those days. Father simply had to acquire the sewing machine in order to keep peace in the family. So he sold the trader 320 acres of timber containing, maybe, 4,000,000 feet of beautiful pine. It was an even deal—the timber for the sewing machine."

BEST INVESTMENT

"That was fifty years ago. To-day that timber would be worth $50,000. Proportionately such increases are going to be made in timber values in British Columbia. And timber here is the best investment that any young man can make."

Mr. Kirby believes that the merger which is planned among larger mills of the northwest will be of inestimable benefit to the industry.

"This merger, being financed by the National City Company of New York, is bound to stabilize prices and thus help every lumberman in British Columbia and elsewhere," he said.

"Would you like to live in British Columbia?" Mr. Kirby was asked.

"In a sense I would," he replied, "but there is one drawback to British Columbia. You have no darkies here. We have them by the thousands in the south. And they are great servants and good people. Say what you like about the colored people, but we miss them when we come up to British Columbia."

ON BUSINESS TRIP

Mr. Kirby will return early in August to Houston, Texas. He is here in connection with the affairs of the Vancouver Lumber Company, a property in which he acquired an extensive interest three years ago from A. L. Clark, formerly of Vancouver, now in the wholesale lumber business in Dallas, Texas.

Europe-U.S. Trade Exceeds Pre-War

New York, Aug. 8.—Exports of the five principal countries of Europe to the United States (Great Britain, Germany, France, Italy and Belgium) showed an increase of seventy-four per cent. in 1925 as compared with 1913, while the exports to the rest of the world increased twenty-four per cent., according to The New York Trust Company.

Ten non-European countries, where European capital is largely invested, sold 362 per cent. more goods to the United States in 1925 than in 1913, and only eighty-seven per cent. more than in 1913 to other countries. For example, the United States buys from Brazil three times as much in value as Brazil buys from the United States, but Brazil buys three and three-quarter times more from a single European country than that country buys from Brazil.

Whereas in 1925 the world's population was about five per cent. greater than in 1913, production of foodstuffs and raw materials was sixteen to eighteen per cent. greater. This increased production, however, has not been accompanied by a corresponding increase in international commerce, for the volume of trade in 1925 was only five per cent. higher than before the war. But these figures are for the world as a whole. Europe is far behind this progress. The production of Europe, whose population has increased by one per cent. was in 1925 about five per cent. greater than in 1913, an increase materially slower than in pre-war years, while its international trade was only eighty-nine per cent. of the pre-war volume.

CANADA'S MARKET IN BRITAIN EXPANDS

Montreal, Aug. 8.—Canadian agricultural products have improved in quality recently, as a result of which producers can hope for better prices in the British market.

This was the optimistic statement made by Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, who arrived in Montreal Saturday on board the liner Megantic, to make a preliminary visit to Canada to confer with the Government.

One of the greatest strides made by Canadian producers who competed in the British market was in the packing of their goods, Mr. Larkin declared, and it was improvement which had done so much to impress British buyers with exports of product from Canada.

Competition in agricultural products was keen in the British market, but Canada was holding her own, he said. Canadian goods were more highly regarded in England now, and if the producers maintained their high quality they need have no fear of the future.

Butter was another of the Canadian products shipped to Great Britain which was gaining favor, he declared.

Four Killed in Road Accidents In Seattle Area

Seattle, Aug. 8.—Four persons were killed and a score injured in week-end traffic accidents in and near Seattle.

Mrs. Florence Irving, wife of a Seattle tailor, was fatally injured near Kirkland when a speeding car crowded her machine off the highway.

Albert and Oscar Engereth, Arlington loggers, were electrocuted when their automobile struck a pole bearing a power line between Arlington and Bryant, north of here.

Peter Macgophus, eleven-year-old Spokane boy, died under the heavy wheels of his uncle's truck near Renton.

Oscar Engereth was killed when he attempted to drag his brother Albert from their car.

MYSTERY SHROUDS BURNING OF YACHT

Borniti, Valued at $30,000, Destroyed in English Bay Last Night

Vancouver, Aug. 8.—Mystery surrounds the burning Sunday night in English Bay of the yacht Borniti, valued at $30,000. She was registered here last week when her owners were given as the Orleans Shipping Company. Two members of the crew, towed away from the boat without their identity becoming known, shortly after the flames broke out. The vessel was some forty-five feet long. She was anchored about a mile from Jericho Beach.

The burning was dramatic and occurred before thousands of spectators on the beach and occupants of scores of small craft which were attracted to the scene. The blaze was spectacular and lasted for about an hour before the hull of the boat died to the bottom.

The yacht was too far from shore for firefighters from point Grey and Vancouver to be of assistance. A speed launch from the Royal Canadian Air Force put out to take off the crew, to find them gone.

The fire apparently broke out suddenly amidships and spread rapidly. The vessel was practically new, having been launched only a few weeks ago at North Vancouver.

Two Killed in Fight With Ram-runners

Port Lauderdale, Fla., Aug. 8.—A Federal agent and a boatman of the coastguard were killed and two others seriously wounded at a ram-runner race yesterday. The shooting took place after a ram boat had been captured and two men taken aboard the coastguard patrol boat No. 249, en route to the Bahamas.

According to meager information received here, the two prisoners opened fire on the crew of the patrol boat, and attempted to fire the government vessel. It was reported that the ram-runners had been wounded.

Vancouver Arranges For Entertainment of Cruiser Colombo

Vancouver, Aug. 8.—Functions being arranged for the entertainment of officers and ships company of H.M.S. Colombo were reviewed Saturday by the civic committee and representatives of various organizations interested. The British cruiser of the West Indies navy unit will reach Vancouver waters the night of August 13 and will be anchored in Burrard Inlet until August 21.

Inspection of the Colombo will be made by civic officials at 11 a.m. Monday, it is expected. Other details of the programme arranged include a dinner by the Naval Officers' Association of British Columbia that evening, and a civic banquet August 17. A regimental ball by the First Battalion, B.C. Regiment, August 19, will be an outstanding event of the week.

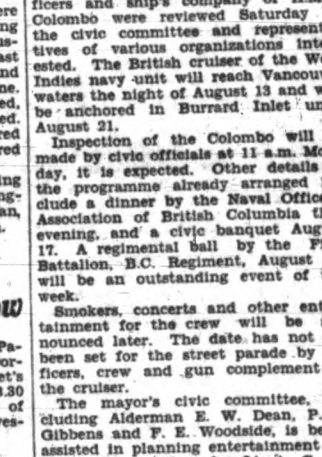

Smokers, concerts and other entertainment for the crew will be announced later. The date has not yet been set for the street parade by officers, crew and gun complement of the cruiser.

The mayor's civic committee, including Aldermen E. W. Dean, P. C. Gibbons and F. E. Woodside, is being assisted in planning entertainment for the visiting sailors by Lieut. C. W. Steers, R.N.V.R., and George Fitch.

Capt. A. M. Lecky, D.S.O., commander of H.M.S. Colombo, has already approved the dates set for the naval and civic dinners to the officers and the regimental ball.

MAN WINS IN DUEL UNDER THE SEA

After a battle under the sea Captain Ole Eliassen, armed with only a small knife, conquered this giant devilfish. The octopus, which measured eighteen feet from the tip of one tentacle to another, attacked Eliassen as he was exploring the partly submerged hull of a wreck at Balboa, Cal., near Los Angeles. The battle lasted twenty minutes.

Sea-going Flivvers Newest Things To Be Found Afloat

Nine ocean-going ships on which the smokestack is a dummy to carry off odors from the cook's galley. Nine ocean-going ships which have no boiler rooms, no boilers, and no coal heaters.

Nine ocean-going flivvers in other words—the newest thing in ships—are said to cut down the cost of operation some eighty per cent. by reason of their Diesel type internal combustion engines, and can offer round the world trips at $800 a passenger, including food for the whole five months' voyage to Gibraltar, Port Said, Bombay, Ceylon, and four ports in Australia.

These nine ships, the first of what may be a considerably larger fleet, have but recently been put in commission. The vessels equipped with the new engines were shipping board vessels which have been lying around since war time.

The baby of the fleet, the Ms. Tampa—no longer will they be called Ms. for the motor has replaced steam—has everything that her designer predicted. She has the first all-American built Diesel engine ever to go in a hull. Crude oil, exploded in big cylinders is the fuel, and in an emergency it is possible to run the ship with an engine crew of two men.

The sweating stokers required to heave coal on the old type steamship are entirely done away with in the Tampa, and when she puffed away on her maiden voyage to Germany, it was the first time since the war that a ship had been built in America.

CANADA WILL SEE YEAR OF PROGRESS

Sir Henry Thornton Addresses Board of Trade at Prince Rupert

Prince Rupert, B.C., Aug. 8.—"This is Canada's century," declared Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National in an address before the Board of Trade Saturday. "The country has every advantage of soil, industry, people and transportation facilities," but when I took hold of the railway there seemed to be a feeling of depression pervading the land.

"I admit I deliberately sought to preach optimism," it was necessary to have courage to turn the resources to advantage to-day the morale of the country is all that could be desired. This morale and the fertile soil, good water power and all the natural resources and advantages which are to be found in Canada, are bound to make for progress.

I repeat this is Canada's century. The country will pass through the same stages of development as did the United States.

Capital will flow in and immigration will be steady. Sir Henry, who is making his annual inspection trip over the lines of the company in Western Canada, left to-night by steamer for Vancouver and Victoria.

The day in Prince Rupert was occupied in an inspection of the harbor, the rail facilities and conference with the Board of Trade and other public bodies.

English Railroad Securities Soft, But Brewery Profits Gain

London, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press Cable)—With the holiday season at its zenith just now and the near approach of another settlement day the stock market naturally presents little animation. The principal feature of the last week was the continued strength of gilt-edged securities.

Foreign government bonds also displayed firmness, a recovery being noted in several of those which recently crowded into the market almost simultaneously. Miscellaneous British stocks were active in places, especially in rubber and British Colonial stocks.

The Famous Bass Brewery Company has reported profits of well over £200,000 on the last year's business, this being an increase of £15,000 compared with the previous year's profits. The company is paying a dividend of fifteen per cent. last free.

Home railway stocks which showed a distinct tendency to improve as a result of recent dividend declarations had all the life knocked out of them by the announcement that the London and Northwestern Railway Company would not pay dividend on its second preference shares.

While the company's stocks are marked down considerably on the market, it does not appear that there is much actual selling thereof.

There has been a splendid response to the request for taggers in connection with the Salvation Army annual tag day in aid of the Army's social and rescue work. There is, however, need for more taggers and those wishing to help will oblige by giving in their name to Commandant Fullerton, telephone 2848, stating what hours they can give for tag work. There will be a tag day and hearty response on the part of the public, as this year the Army's obligations are the same. Saturday, August 13, is the date.

Much favorable comment has been received concerning the large shipment of tanned skins and manufactured articles made from rabbit pelts, which were sent by B. & E. Simmonds, "Rabbit Ranch," Victoria, and F. Boucher, "Rabbit Ranch," in response to a special request from the world's congress show officials at Ottawa. These fine exhibits formed part of the excellent display shown by the various provinces and staged by the Canadian Small Breeds Association, under the supervision of R. G. Hodgson, the well-known editor of The Fur Trades Journal of Canada, and worthily represented Vancouver Island by the excellent quality and variety of fur shown. Many of the articles were sold and duplicates have been ordered. The wide radius of inquiries already received clearly showing its educational advertising value.

VICTORIANS WILL BET LESS IF THEY FOLLOW MAINLAND

Returns at Vancouver Tracks Continue to Show Downward Movement in Wagers

Daily Average Drops, But Longer Season May Make Total Equal to 1926

Victoria will bet less than last year on races when the horses come to Colwood Wednesday, if it follows the example set by Vancouver.

Figures released at the Parliament Buildings to-day show a continuation of the decline in wagers noted earlier in the season on mainland tracks. So far this season a substantial drop has been recorded in the daily average of total wagers on all three Vancouver racing parks.

The latest figures, covering the Brighouse meet, which closed Saturday, show that bets there totaled $383,278 for four days as compared with $412,284 during corresponding days a year ago.

The daily average last year was $112,716, as against $101,294 this year. This would produce a large net reduction in wagers for the entire season if it were the same length as the 1926 season. As there will be fifty-six days of racing this year as against forty-one last year, the total amount of bets may be about the same.

The Brighouse figures showed decreases similar to those recorded at the two previous meets at Landdown and Hastings Parks. So far this year $1,637,307 has been wagered during the eight-day days of racing for which figures have been compiled as against $1,706,748 in fifteen corresponding days last year.

There has been a splendid response to the request for taggers in connection with the Salvation Army annual tag day in aid of the Army's social and rescue work. There is, however, need for more taggers and those wishing to help will oblige by giving in their name to Commandant Fullerton, telephone 2848, stating what hours they can give for tag work. There will be a tag day and hearty response on the part of the public, as this year the Army's obligations are the same. Saturday, August 13, is the date.

SNEAK THIEF GETS PURSE FROM TRUCK

Unknown Woman Saw Stranger Loitering Near Scene of Theft

A handbag containing $100 in bills and silver was the loot of a sneak thief yesterday afternoon, who grabbed Mrs. G. H. Moody's handbag from her husband's automobile truck. Mrs. Moody lives at 2859 Government Street and is the wife of a crippled war veteran.

Yesterday afternoon she and her husband were near Spoon Bay, Uplands, and she left her handbag in the truck. When she and her husband returned to the machine they found the handbag gone.

They learned from an unknown woman who was in the vicinity that a man had been seen hanging around the truck and from her they sought his description. Chief of Police Symes of Mak Bay is searching for the woman who has this information. She did not give Mrs. Moody her name. With information which she may possess, Chief Symes believes he may be able to catch the thief. He has enlisted the aid of the Victoria detective department.

The money in Mrs. Moody's handbag was her husband's earnings for the month and was to have been used for paying bills.

PROTECTION TOPIC CAUSES DISCUSSION

Gyros Listen to Joshua Hinchliffe and Then Ask Many Questions

Joshua Hinchliffe, M.P., appeared before the Gyro Club at its luncheon to-day at the Chamber of Commerce and spoke on "Is Protection Good Business?"

Mr. Hinchliffe contended that protection, applied with reason and on a sound basis, was invaluable to a country and he illustrated the case of a cobbler in a small town who made shoes and then had a resident buy an outside shoe because he could save fifty cents. The speaker contended that this was bad business as the money went out of the town. What applied to the small town applied to the nation, he stated.

"Every business man trading the kernel of protection by accepting the man who will trade back with him," declared Mr. Hinchliffe. "We have fruit-growers in Saanich who do practically all their trading in Victoria but Victorians do not buy fruit from the Saanich people because they have bought it from a foreign market a week or two earlier."

ENJOY DISCUSSION

Mr. Hinchliffe invited the Gyros to question him on the principle of inter-trading and he welcomed a bombardment of questions. He was particularly interested in the question of inter-trading between the English-speaking peoples was the very spirit of the occasion at the dedicated yesterday by the Prince of Wales of the new International Bridge between Port Erie, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y.

Dedicating the bridge, the Prince of Wales said that by a coincidence which was great pleasure to him, the formal dedication of this bridge, which commemorates the peace which has happily endured between the British Empire and the United States for more than a century.

"May this bridge be not only a physical and material link between Canada and the United States, but may it also be symbolical of the maintenance of the peace which has happily endured between the British Empire and the United States for more than a century."

The Gyro softball team will tackle the Foresters to-morrow night at Centennial Park, Gyro John Simpson announced.

Gyro Charlie Hunt and his orchestra were on hand and Gyro Hudson led the singing.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH KIDNAPING RAIL

Police Alleged Liquor Was Kept For Sale at Roadhouse

Charged on two counts with keeping unsealed liquor and keeping liquor for sale, Mrs. Elizabeth Alexander was arraigned before Magistrate Jay in the Provincial Police court this morning and remanded for hearing until Monday next. Mrs. Alexander's roadhouse, known as the "Chanticleer," was raided by provincial officers on the morning of July 31. NIAGARA PEACE BRIDGE OPENED TO PUBLIC

From the beginning the ceremony was colorful and carried out in ideal weather. The international boundary line at the centre of the bridge was marked by a white ribbon extending from side to side, and at a signal from the Canadian side the British Empire and United States flags were approached each other on opposite sides of the ribbon. Mrs. W. D. Ross, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and Mrs. Governor of Ontario, the Vice-President of the United States, reached forward and cut the ribbon and through the gaps thus made the two groups, greeting each other in an informal way.

All eyes were on the heir to the British throne as he alighted from an automobile as the speakers' stand on with wreaths by the crew, is under arrest. Fisher is alleged to have been killed by the pouring of acid into his mouth while he was asleep. The woman was held prisoner in her cabin until the arrival of the ship here, and now is in a London jail awaiting a hearing.

place 5 per cent debentures, the city will save many thousands of dollars during the terms of the new debentures. The amount of debentures to be sold is $666,887. These will be issued March 1, 1928, when the city will call for tenders," continued Mr. MacDonald.

Four possible alternatives are open to the city, and tables on each plan with the cost in interest each year have been worked out by the City Comptroller.

Interest in 1927 on account of two lots of treasury certificates maturing next year and in 1930 is $70,440. In 1928 the redemption of the first treasury certificates and the utilization of the proceeds of the redemption fund, which by the time it is required will amount to about $800,000, will reduce the interest to $65,628, if 5 per cent debentures were sold, and to $61,590, if 5 per cent debentures take their place or a saving of approximately $2,100 in that year alone. In 1929 the saving would be $3,284. The reduction in interest charges would continue on a decreasing scale, until the entire debt under this head is discharged at a total saving of $87,778 over the whole term of the new debentures.

A similar point arises in connection with $200,000 of treasury certificates maturing July 31, 1929, and secured by certain unsold 6 per cent debentures. While many municipalities have seen the advantage of the plan, it remained for the City of Victoria to approach the Legislature and to secure permission to take advantage of the material reduction

Wellburn Unable To Stick Hard Pace And Audrey Griffin Wins

Local Mermaid Gets Name Back on The Times Cup After Lapse of Three Years

Mary Martin and Dave Burnett, Young Swimmers, do Well; Huge Crowd

Audrey Griffin, prize swimmer of the Y.M.C.A., scratched her name once again on The Times Cup on Saturday as a result of winning the annual Through-Victoria-Swim. Audrey led a field of twelve swimmers from the Causeway to the Gorge float and finished nearly two minutes ahead of Tommy Wellburn of the V.A.S.C., who entered at the last minute and made a great effort to win after having tried unsuccessfully three times before.

Audrey has been swimming second in the race for the past three years, owing to the fact that Johnny Cameron of Vancouver was just a little too strong for her with his powerful over-arm stroke which took him through the water so rapidly. Cameron entered this year but at the last minute was unable to get away. With Cameron out of the way, the race resolved itself into a duel between Tommy Wellburn and Audrey Griffin with King of Vancouver, as the unknown quantity and darkness.

As soon as the swimmers came to the surface after the take-off they settled into the strokes which they maintained to the finish. Audrey fell into her reliable old routine, kept her arms straight and her head down, while Wellburn resorted to his fast crawl. King used a crawl as well as Jeffrey, who, after making good time, dropped out. Point Elliot, dropped out on account of the coldness of the water. He was swimming fourth when he left the water.

Wellburn soon took the lead but he failed to gain more than a few yards on Audrey. When nearing the Johnston Street bridge he ploughed blindly into a bed of kelp and had to drop to the side. This gave Audrey the lead for the first time, but Wellburn opened up a little and was soon in the lead and passed under the bridge first. His time from the Causeway was 12 minutes and 30 seconds. At this point Audrey was second, King third, Jeffrey fourth, Cameron fifth, Burnett sixth, Johnny Cameron seventh, W. T. Stanyon eighth, MacLeod ninth, Frankie Hall tenth and Mary Martin eleventh.

Gordon Young, formerly of Victoria, but who has been residing in Los Angeles for six years, was the twelfth starter in the Point Elliot race. He found the water too cool for him after the hot southern climate. Before going south he finished in the prize money both times.

Audrey and Tommy had a great battle on the way from the Johnston Street bridge to the Gorge float. Audrey pulled under a lead of half a length and passed under the bridge first. She took 29 minutes to reach this point. From then on Audrey was not headed and continued to increase her lead.

King continued to swim in third place at Point Elliot, with Gweneth Audrey fourth, Burnett fifth, Stanyon sixth, MacLeod seventh, Mary Martin eighth and Hall ninth. Foubister and Jeffrey were taken from the water before reaching the Gorge float.

The remaining swimmers were strung out over the course in the last half and, with Wellburn unable to pull up on Audrey, the famous mermaid was assured of the race. Hall and MacLeod were both headed from the water early in the second half and this left but seven swimmers to finish.

Audrey was given a great hand when she reached the finishing barge. The crowd remained until the last of the swimmers arrived. The last man home was W. T. Stanyon, the veteran, who has swum in every race for sixteen years and has always finished. He won the R. C. Ross Cup on Saturday for being the first veteran to finish. The crowd gave the two young swimmers, Mary Martin and Dave Burnett, both of whom are sixteen years of age, a tremendous ovation. These youngsters swam in great style and have a future as long distance swimmers. A great improvement was noticed this year in the swimmers of Gweneth Bailey, who finished fourth.

Owing to the deplorable condition of the float at the Gorge the swimmers did not receive their prizes in the customary way. Dave Burnett was the luckiest man in the party. A young lady broke through the police cordon and ran down to the float and kissed Dave. She got her feet wet for the trouble. The city should see that this float is either rebuilt or replaced by a new one.

The results were as follows: First—Audrey Griffin, Y.M.C.A. Time, 1 hour 4 minutes 42 seconds. Second—Tommy Wellburn, V.A.S.C. Time, 1 hour 6 minutes 5 seconds. Third—Henry King, Vancouver. Time, 1 hour 12 minutes 10 seconds. Fourth—Gweneth Bailey, Victoria. Time, 1 hour 14 minutes 11 seconds. Fifth—Dave Burnett, V.A.S.C. Time, 1 hour 21 minutes 24 seconds. Sixth—Mary Martin, V.I. Time, 1 hour 32 minutes 30 seconds. Seventh—W. T. Stanyon, V.A.S.C. Time, 1 hour 37 minutes 4 seconds. The officials were as follows: Referee, Gordon Young; judges, Percy Pitt and R. W. Hibberd; timekeepers, Clarence Johns and John Baxter; clerk of course, Capt. Hansen; starter, Archie Willis; announcer, L. M. Galloway.

Chicago Increase Lead in National League to Three and One-half Games

Cincinnati Win a Pair; Jackie May Strikes Out Eleven Men; Yankees Win

New York, Aug. 8.—Chicago stretched its third winning streak of the season to seven straight games yesterday by defeating Brooklyn at Chicago, 6 to 5, in eleven innings. Increasing the Cubs' lead over the Pirates to 3½ games. Hack Wilson's timely single brought the victory in the eleventh. It was Charlie Root's twentieth victory of the year.

Both games of the doubleheader at Cincinnati were taken by the scrapping Reds, who bested the Phillies 5 to 1 and 3 to 1, before a crowd of 20,000. Jackie May proved the hero of the day by striking out eleven Phillie batters while the Reds were hitting. The Braves' twirler, Genevieve, for the second game was a pitchers' battle between Red Lucas and Sweetland.

Cardinal batters pounded the Braves' twirler, Genevieve, for twelve hits in 7-3-0 innings, including two homers and five doubles. Fournier also hit a homer.

Californians Sail Away With All B.C. Net Championships

Miss Williams and Lockwood Win Two Titles Each in Finals on Saturday

Risso, One-armed Wonder, Surprises With Win in Men's Singles Over Harrison

The Californian contingent carried off all five titles in the B.C. tennis championships which were brought to a very successful close on Saturday at the Willows before a large and colorful gallery. Upset in the two singles events featured the day's play.

In the most surprising of these Johnny Risso of the California Tennis Club downed his more highly rated rival, Bradshaw Harrison, in four sets, 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. It was the first time that the one-armed star has won on his northern tour and his victory was very popular indeed with the gallery.

Risso was at the top of his game on Saturday keeping wonderful length on his drives throughout and showing plenty of judgment on his sorties to the net, where his crisp volleying was a constant threat to his opponent. On the other hand, seemed stale and "over-tanned" as did many of the other finalists. They have been playing tennis every day since they arrived in Victoria and this showed itself in Saturday's play.

APPLIED PRESSURE: Risso was in complete control during the first two sets but Harrison improved in the third and, aided by some breaks in his favor, he went off the courts at the interval only one set down. At this point it seemed as if he might win but Risso applied more pressure and Harrison was winning with the loss of only two games.

The point summary of the Harrison-Risso match by games is as follows: FIRST SET: 4-2 4-4 5-3 0-4-21. SECOND SET: 4-1 4-4 4-3 2-5-34. THIRD SET: 4-3 4-1 4-0 0-21. FOURTH SET: 4-3 4-1 4-0 0-21.

Total points: Risso 113, Harrison 113. Risso won three sets to one, 21 games to 14, 124 points to 113. After being down 1-3 in the first set, Marion Williams had matters all her own way against Edith Cross whom she defeated 6-3, 6-3. It was the Williams-Swartz battle of the previous day over again with Miss Williams coming out victorious in a most successful manner. Miss Cross only showed flashes of her best form.

TOO MANY GUNS: Bradshaw Harrison and Sherman Lockwood carried too many big guns for Johnny Risso and Stanley Almqvist in the final of the men's doubles. After the first set in which the eventual winners were making many mistakes there was little doubt as to which pair would win as both Harrison and Lockwood were winning their own services with ease while they frequently broke through their opponents' deliveries by means of stinging drives which caught them at their feet as they came into the net. Lockwood, in particular, was brilliant on the offensive and on one occasion he sent down three consecutive service aces.

The winners had previously eliminated the Peers-McKee combination at 7-5 in the fifth set after twice being within a point of defeat at 4-6. Geoff Peers was the shining light of this match.

It was the Williams-Swartz battle of the previous day over again with Miss Williams coming out victorious in a most successful manner. Miss Cross only showed flashes of her best form.

TOO MANY GUNS: Bradshaw Harrison and Sherman Lockwood carried too many big guns for Johnny Risso and Stanley Almqvist in the final of the men's doubles. After the first set in which the eventual winners were making many mistakes there was little doubt as to which pair would win as both Harrison and Lockwood were winning their own services with ease while they frequently broke through their opponents' deliveries by means of stinging drives which caught them at their feet as they came into the net. Lockwood, in particular, was brilliant on the offensive and on one occasion he sent down three consecutive service aces.

The winners had previously eliminated the Peers-McKee combination at 7-5 in the fifth set after twice being within a point of defeat at 4-6. Geoff Peers was the shining light of this match.

Great Finish Gives Tommy Armour Title As Canadian Champ

Open Champion of U.S. Met Test in Great Style and Won By One Mere Stroke

Toronto, Aug. 8.—Scoring a sparkling 70, three under par for the last 18 holes of the 72-hole Tommy Armour, D.C. United States open champion, won the Canadian open golf title here Saturday, with a total of 288.

Armour came in late to nose out MacDonald Smith of Great Neck, Long Island, who with 289, had shortly before taken first place from William Burke of Greenwich, Conn. Smith had 69 for the final round, while a 68 that tied the competitive record for the course, had given him the temporary leadership with 290.

The finish was a stirring one as the ten leaders were within seven strokes of each other, there being ties for fourth, sixth and eighth places.

Starting out on the final 36-hole grid for the title, Leo Diegel, who won the championship in 1924 and 1925, had a two-stroke lead on Johnny Farrell and Walter Hagen, while Armour and Al Watrous, 1922 titleholder, were deadlocked in fourth place with 145.

In close attendance the halfway mark were Willie MacFarlane with 146, Bobby Cruikshank and Burke with 147, while Smith had 150 for the initial 54 holes and Turren had 151.

LEADERSHIP CHANGES—After the morning round Al Watrous, by a sterling round of 70, had gone into the lead with a total of 215 for the 54 holes, but he was closely pressed by Hagen with 215, Farrell 217, Armour and Diegel 218. Six others were within nine strokes of the leader.

Joe Turren was the first of the ten leaders to get home with a 73. He took the lead with a 294. Then came Burke with his 68, which gave him the total of 290.

With three holes to play, Armour had used up twenty-three of the thirty-five strokes available, and the last three holes have a total par of twelve. An eagle three on the sixth hole, and he was on pin-high and twelve feet to the right in two. His first putt stopped a little over two feet from the hole, but second time hit the back of the cup and dropped in for the round of 70 and a total of 289.

Coming to the sixteenth, Hagen, who was in the last pair to finish, had a chance to tie the Armour total, but he needed to play two of the holes in par and take the third with a birdie. His chance was gone, however, when he took three putts on the sixteenth for a six and then on the short seventh he was again one over par.

There was some fine golf in the concluding two rounds. The best effort of the day was the equalling of the course record by Burke, which gave him third place but others in the field brought forth great rounds amid the tenseness of the final struggle.

The first ten players share the prize money of $2,000. The winner, Tommy Armour, won $400 and a silver medal. He was awarded by $200 and a silver medal.

By leading the Canadian professionals, Andy Kay, Toronto, who finished eleventh with 297, won a $36 prize. MacFarlane took second prize of $15 with 300. Don Carrick, the Canadian amateur, won the gold medal for the best amateur score with 306, six strokes better than Stanley Thompson.

Peace and Harmony Is Sought By Footballers

Another of England's Fine Prospects For Net Titles

Nanaimo, Aug. 8.—Twenty-eight club delegates were on hand for the annual meeting of the B.C.F.A. Saturday night.

The constitution, as prepared by the Royal Commission, was adopted. The clause which prohibits a registered player from holding office went through, and it is understood that this is the hurdle which the V. and D. people flatly refused to leap over.

John Muter was elected president and Tommy Christie secretary. The new B.C.F.A. council is J. E. Knight of Nanaimo; A. D. Robertson, Victoria; R. H. Wilkinson, New Westminster; F. Davidson, Vancouver. John Muter will go to the annual D.F.A. meeting early in September at Calgary.

It was announced that the commission is in receipt of $2,010, British Columbia's share of the Scottish games here. This will be divided on a pro rata basis between the different districts, but no allocation of the funds will be made until the situation in Vancouver City is clarified.

There was a keen feeling evident at the meeting for peace and harmony, and the new council is pledged to do its utmost to bring this about. The commission, to all intents and purposes, has ceased to function. Their work, they feel, is completed. Their resignations will be forwarded to the D.F.A. council for what action they deem preferable.

In respect of those Mainland members suspended some time ago, nothing will be done until the annual D.F.A. meeting. The commission will make out no case for itself in this regard, but will let the Dominion body act in the matter as it sees fit.

Certain minor changes in the adopted constitution may be undertaken by the new B.C.F.A. These, if any are made, will be submitted to the commission, and by them to the D.F.A. council.

Peace and Harmony Is Sought By Footballers

Another of England's Fine Prospects For Net Titles

Nanaimo, Aug. 8.—Twenty-eight club delegates were on hand for the annual meeting of the B.C.F.A. Saturday night.

The constitution, as prepared by the Royal Commission, was adopted. The clause which prohibits a registered player from holding office went through, and it is understood that this is the hurdle which the V. and D. people flatly refused to leap over.

John Muter was elected president and Tommy Christie secretary. The new B.C.F.A. council is J. E. Knight of Nanaimo; A. D. Robertson, Victoria; R. H. Wilkinson, New Westminster; F. Davidson, Vancouver. John Muter will go to the annual D.F.A. meeting early in September at Calgary.

It was announced that the commission is in receipt of $2,010, British Columbia's share of the Scottish games here. This will be divided on a pro rata basis between the different districts, but no allocation of the funds will be made until the situation in Vancouver City is clarified.

There was a keen feeling evident at the meeting for peace and harmony, and the new council is pledged to do its utmost to bring this about. The commission, to all intents and purposes, has ceased to function. Their work, they feel, is completed. Their resignations will be forwarded to the D.F.A. council for what action they deem preferable.

"BEWARE OF WIDOWS" IS WARNING TITLE OF BIG FILM NOW AT DOMINION

Paulette Duval and Bryant Washburn Are Together in Fine Combination; Walter Hiers, the Famous Fat Funny-man, Is Responsible for Humorous Seasoning of Picture

The cast of Laura La Plante's Universal starring vehicle, "Beware of Widows," which shows at the Dominion Theatre all this week, consists of people famous on both the stage and screen.

Bryant Washburn was on the stage before he went into motion picture work. He has been starred in his own films and, after a space of retirement to the stage, he is back in motion pictures.

Paulette Duval was a noted Parisienne dancer and came to America to spend a year in Zeigfeld's "Follies," after which, she moved to Hollywood to take up a motion picture career.

Walter Hiers was formerly a stock actor in the East and is now one of the leading screen comedians, having been before the cameras for fourteen years.

Tully Marshall spent thirty-five years on the stage, touring America and Europe. He has been in motion pictures for fifteen years and is recognized as one of the screen's best actors.

Catherine Carter was in New York shows for several seasons before she went to Hollywood.
Helene Conklin was a head-liner in vaudeville for fifteen years, and settled down in Hollywood eleven years ago to rear his family in a stationary home.
Even the director, Wesley Ruggles, was on the stage for several years before he entered pictures as a Keystone Cop, prior to his entering the directorial field.

Famed Wizard of Oz Comes to Life On Picture Screen

Playhouse Offering Two Picture Presentations All Week

Joseph Swickard, the villainous Prime Minister in "The Wizard of Oz," at the Playhouse this week, had a varied experience on the stage before his debut before the camera. Born and educated in Germany, he appeared on the stage in his native land, before his migration to the United States. In this country, Mr. Swickard appeared in many successes on the stage in New York and later toured the larger cities in vaudeville.

His career in motion pictures is well known. As one of the leading character players of the screen, he has appeared in more than one hundred productions. His role in "The Wizard of Oz" is typical of the type of parts in which he has found greatest success that of the type of suave, scheming villain. Larry Semon is the star of the picture.

COLLEEN MOORE

is playing in "Naughty But Nice" at the Capitol.

Billie Dove Aspires to Lillian Russell's Beauty Crown

Billie Dove (left), rated as to-day's typical beauty, and Lillian Russell, who twenty years ago was called the original American beauty.

Is Billie Dove to succeed Lillian Russell as the modern beauty? When it comes to striking beauty, there are few in this movie colony to compete with Billie Dove, and that may be one reason why Billie's new production is titled "The Modern Beauty." The title was selected to fit the star, and the story was written to fit the star and the title. It looks like a good combination and it should make a good picture.

It is interesting to compare Billie Dove with Lillian Russell who was acclaimed "the original beauty" some twenty years ago. Lillian Russell held that title for many years, but since her halcyon days, styles of beauty have changed.

In the days when Lillian Russell was queen, small waists, large busts and great masses of hair were the vogue. The straight lines of to-day's styles, and the simple bobbed hair, offer as sharp a contrast as can be found.

Billie Dove has run the same gauntlet of hard luck that so many other really good stars have been forced to traverse during the year. She has been given terrible stories, and though her efforts to make the terrible stories into good pictures have been noble, the task is hopeless or the next thing to it.

Billie has been told often enough that she is beautiful, but the telling hasn't spoiled her. Modestly, she declares that "The American Beauty" is a good story, "so if the picture isn't any good it will be our fault."

Veterans of Screen Together at Making of "For Wives Only"

Josephine Crowell and William Courtwright Starred For Griffith

It was one of "those" mornings on the Metropolitan lot. Director Victor Heerman, with shirt front thrown open to court the elusive breeze that seemed more than usually elusive this particular morning, took a final lingering glance over the "set." Nothing remained but the signal to start the cameras grinding on Marie Prevost's third Metropolitan starring production "For Wives Only," which is now showing at the Columbia Theatre.

Immune to the din, Josephine Crowell and William Courtwright, both veterans of the stage and screen, were reminiscing. Back in the days when D. W. Griffith was filming his masterpiece, "The Birth of a Nation," Miss Crowell and Courtwright were included in the Griffith message. Both played important parts in the production and in "Intolerance" and other Griffith productions.

In recent years their paths have not crossed with frequency. Their meeting on the Metropolitan lot came as a pleasant surprise to both as neither was aware that the other had been cast to appear in "For Wives Only."

Victor Varconi plays the male lead to Miss Prevost in the photoplay, which is an adaptation from the stage success, "The Critical Year." Charles Gerrard, Claude Gillingwater, Arthur Hagt, and Dorothy Cummings also have prominent parts.

And on the same bill is "The Love Man." In a spirit of mischief and adventure, she tried to teach the coal man the ways of society. She made him too good for his own friends but not good enough for hers. When he found himself humiliated and stripped of his social prestige, he turned cave man once more. It is interesting.

"The Red Kimono" Is Attraction at Coliseum To-day

Production Personally Supervised by Mrs. Wallace Reid; Direction by Walter Lang

The latest production sponsored and personally supervised by Mrs. Wallace Reid, "The Red Kimono," is one of the season's biggest attractions and is showing at the Coliseum Theatre this week. It is what is known as a human document, but it is not the usual sugar-coated sermon; it has real entertainment value apart from its propaganda. The direction is excellent, the cast studded with luminaries. This is a picture appealing to all women arousing their sympathies and at the same time holding the interest.

Mrs. Reid introduces her picture with a brief plea for modern Magdalenes, one of whom Gabrielle is the heroine played by Miss Bonner. The story follows her through her unfortunate "romance," her desertion, her murder of her betrayer and her trial. Judged not guilty, she is cast out on the world to win redemption. Her fight against intolerance and her narrow escape from a return to her old life have been dramatically yet delicately set forth. There are touches of comedy to relieve the gloom. The charm and restraint of Francisca Bonner lift her role above the ordinary and are in no small degree responsible for the fact that "The Red Kimono" leaves no unpleasant after-taste.

Mrs. Wallace Reid personally supervised "The Red Kimono" and Walter Lang excellently directed it. Mr. Lang more and more is proving his ability as a fine director. The story is by Adela Rogers, St. Johns.

The cast includes such excellent players as Tyrone Power, Virginia Pearson, George Seigmann, Mary Carr, Sheldon Lewis, Nellie Bly Baker, Carl Miller, Emily Fitzroy and Max Asher.

Bebe Daniels is Proving Popular Again This Week

"A Kiss in a Taxi" is Vehicle For Famed Actress

If motion picture audiences need any further proof that Bebe Daniels is the screen's outstanding comedienne, they have it at the Variety Theatre where Paramount's latest, "A Kiss in a Taxi," is being shown.

"A Kiss in a Taxi" is French farce, crisp, delicious, rapid in action, filled to the brim with laughter and played by a skilful cast. As Ginette, alluring waitress of the Cafe Pierre, the dark-eyed star presents one of the best characterizations of her career. Brilliant support is accorded by Chester Conklin, Douglas Gilmore, her new leading man, Jocelyn Lee, Henry Kolker and Richard Tucker. Clarence Badger, the man who directed Bebe in "Miss Brewster's Millions" and "The Campus Flirt," handled the megaphone for "A Kiss in a Taxi"—a fact that should prove sufficient to make you want to see it.

Although essentially comic, the picture is not devoid of thrills. In an opening sequence, a taxi is driven through a crowded cafe, hurtling from one wall to the other. This brief action represents one of the most exciting bits or screen photography ever re-

FINANCIAL STOCKS — GRAIN — BONDS — MARKETS

Wall Street TO-DAY

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

Wall Street Journal's Review of To-day's Stock Market Over B.C. Bond Corporation's Direct Wall Street Leased Wire to the Victoria Times

Stocks to-day experienced the most extensive corrective movement witnessed since the start of the upswing which proceeded almost perpendicularly from the middle of June to the end of July. In most quarters the reaction advanced for the setback was the introduction of politics into the stock market by the Coolidge statement. Many people believed the president's action injected uncertainties from which the financial situation had been singularly free since Coolidge's inauguration.

However, Wall Street was not free from the feeling that this factor was susceptible to over-emphasis. Undoubtedly the market stood in need of technical correction after its remarkable rise. Mr. Coolidge's announcement provided a pretext for a reaction, which might well have developed from internal conditions in the speculative structure.

Above all is the strength of the money situation. Fortunately this point was emphasized by the reduction in the discount rate at various important centers almost simultaneously with the Coolidge announcement, softening the shock of the latter blow. These cuts brought into clearer relief the extraordinary investment conditions prevailing in this country.

Lima Loco was an outstanding feature on the up side. Its advance was accompanied by reports that American Loco. interests were seeking control of the Lima company in the open market. Interests sponsoring General Railway Signal were buyers of the stock on the reaction. They look for an early statement from the L.C.C. prodding railroads which have been delinquent in the matter of installing automatic train control.

Trading was affected by the absence of many large traders taking a hot weather vacation. W. C. Durant is planning to join the summer party. He is scheduled to sail for Europe August 20. Charles M. Schwab's optimism regarding the outlook for the steel trade over the balance of the year had a stimulating effect on Bethlehem. The latter pushed into new high ground since 1924 in the face of heavy selling in the general list. Important Wall Street interests believe that Bethlehem has started on its first major move in several years. Immediately the stock is believed to be discounting the resumption of common dividends at a 45 annual rate in January.

Time money against stock exchange collateral is quiet.

Reversing the customary occurrence, which is for Western financial houses to extend West, the Royal Financial Corporation, with headquarters in Vancouver, is adding to its western chain of offices by opening a branch in Winnipeg this month.

R. P. McDermid Jr., son of R. P. McDermid, manager of the Royal Financial, will have charge of the new office. Branches of the investment brokerage house will thus be found in Victoria, Vancouver, Edmonton and Winnipeg.

"In Winnipeg, as elsewhere in our organization, we shall specialize in Western Canadian securities," said Mr. McDermid Sr. to-day.

On the staff of the Royal Financial for the past seven years, Mr. McDermid Jr. goes to Winnipeg having the advantage of a thorough acquaintance with the industrial financing of the West. He is widely known throughout the interior of British Columbia, where he has traveled for some years as a bond salesman.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

GRAIN PRICES SOAR ON PRAIRIE FROST

Winnipeg, Aug. 8.—Grain prices soared upward to-day as a result of unconfirmed private reports of frost in some sections of Saskatchewan. Closing prices for wheat were 7 1/2 to 8 1/2 higher than on Saturday, but were down 2 cents from to-day's peak. October closed at 15 1/2, and December at 14 1/2.

Course grains rose with wheat from 4 1/2 to 6 1/2 cents. There was fairly large trading although offerings were difficult to dispose of and buyers could obtain requirements only by bidding up prices.

A fairly good export business in the local market, most of the sales being made to the continent.

Winnipeg, Aug. 8.—O.P.R. reports that water froze at Rosetown, Sask., last night, with a low temperature of 28 below.

One block of ice at Gravelburg, Sask., is reported.

SNAKED

A Story of One Wonderful Week

By MALCOLM DUART

Copyright 1927

"I'm afraid to go," she said. "Some men are hiding around here. They wanted to see Stewart Bodey, but couldn't do so because they carried him and his brother off in the night!"

"Darned if I know," answered the boy, comfortably. "I was asleep. Can't take me up with a cannon when you get to sleep. Ma always says that when you start snoring once, I might as well be dead—can't wake me up at all!"

Smith was proving a poor support in her time of trouble, and Nadine, after supplying him with additional food, stood beside the stove and absently slipped from her cup of coffee.

"Come on," urged the boy, as he finally concluded his meal. "Let's grab our duds and get away from here."

She frowned over the rim of her cup. "You ought to be ashamed," she said. "What for?" His surprise was unbridled.

"Why Mr. Bodey—both Mr. Bodeys have been so good to you, and gone to all this risk for you, and you don't run away just when they may be in some terrible trouble?"

"Aw, let 'em look out for themselves," he wiped his eyes. "They're old enough. Show what I'm going to do?" She did not answer, and he continued: "Bodey says there's gold up north—I can't know just where, but pretty far up in Canada. I'm going there and find some. He's going—but I don't have a wait-for him."

"Hilbert, you mustn't!" Nadine stamped her foot.

"I can do what I want," he said, defiantly.

"Aren't you even worried over what's come of your mother? Here's she's one, with only shoe, and you don't know what's happened to her."

"She can get another shoe," he said, going to the door and looking across the street. "Ma's a scrapper. She can take care of herself. Why, go on!"

He turned to Nadine: "I couldn't get away from her at all. It's my chance."

The girl was taking the dishes from the table, her hands jerking nervously, as under lip caught beneath her white mail teeth.

"Say, kid," Smith sauntered back into the kitchen, and stood before her. "These Bodeys, they've got cold feet. I been here six weeks, about, and nobody's come to try to arrest me. They come after Stewart Bodey, maybe, at they didn't get him. Likely him and his brother and Pierce has run away—just scared out! But I ain't scared. I don't believe anybody's looking for me any more, now. I'm going a slide out of here—I'll hoof it toward New York. Then I'll get a job, and start, gilly."

He took Nadine by the arm. She stared at him, round-eyed. "Will you come when I get there. You'll come?"

"Oh!" She backed away from him.

"Don't you want to get married?"

"No! No! No!" Nadine jerked her head loose, and fled into her own room, locking the door and locking it. She asked the door on the opposite side and waited, frightened, for his next move.

"All right!" He was evidently stooping close to the keyhole. "I give you our chance, and you didn't take it. You can go to thunder!"

She heard him moving around. The upboard door slammed, and there were sounds to indicate that he was huffing his pockets with supplies.

She heard him as he circled the house and came in through the front entrance, climbing the stairs to his room. There he thumped around for a time, his heavy feet making the rose boards of the floor reverberate.

"Finally he came down," So long, kid," he called.

She did not answer.

Later, when she carefully opened her door and stole out into the doorway, he could see him far down the road, bundle on his back, trudging toward the highway.

Nadine was alone at the Sherwood face.

CHAPTER LIII

Alone! And free to go away! Nadine dropped to the big fallen limb that lay beside the ditch. Smith was gone. Nobody was in view—the seedling figure of the boy was hidden by the hedge, and a quick glance showed her that no other creature was visible in all the widespread landscape.

Thereupon she buried her face in her arms and began to cry.

She wept a long time, as a child weeps when it is left alone and is frightened. When, at last, the sobs died away she wiped her eyes with a nap of a handkerchief—one of those that Pierce had brought for her—and went into the house.

In her own room, which she had lately shared with Irene, the little heap of underwear and stockings and other small supplies still lay upon the closet floor. She knelt and looked them over.

After a long period of thought she tied them together, and, rising, carried them to the bed. She put on her hat and coat.

The whinny of a horse sounded from the old milk house.

"Oh, the poor things!" she exclaimed.

She sped through the kitchen and out into the yard. The bucket, with its length of clothe-line attached to the handle, lay on its side on the curb of the well. She drew pail after pail of water, and filled the mossy trough to the brim. The undertaking consumed more than half an hour, but she was smiling when the task was completed.

Going to the small brick building, she released the horses. Each of them, in turn, gravely rubbed her sleeve with its soft nose, as if in thanks. She threw her arms around the neck of one, and held it tight.

"You dear old things!" she cried, her eyes wet again. "You sweet old things!"

While the horses were drinking, she hunted the pitchfork and threw into the yard enough hay for three days' provender. She was unskilful with the fork; she managed to move only a wisp of hay at a time, but she kept at it until the heap beside the door had grown to huge proportions.

She attempted to pull loose the boards within the stable that barred the horses from the stacked-up supply, but her muscles were not equal to the task.

"I guess that's enough, though," she said aloud, looking at the portion she had transferred out of doors.

"Goodbye!" She stroked the old beasts tenderly upon their necks and waved to them as she entered the kitchen.

There, her eyes fell upon the dishes that were left from Smith's breakfast. With an exclamation she drew off her coat and took the dishpan from the nail upon which it hung.

There was not enough hot water, so she heated more by using the two broad frying pans which brought it to a boil more quickly than the kettle could do.

When the water was ready, she washed and wiped the dishes and put them carefully away. The floor needed sweeping, and she attended to that duty also. When this was done, she set the broom in the corner, and reached for her coat.

Another idea struck her. She hurried into her own room and made the bed, neatly. Two other rooms had been occupied upstairs. She went there, made the bed that Smith had slept in, rearranged the straw in the front room.

This done, she looked around, a finger to her lip. The floor was untidy. Going downstairs, she secured her broom, and swept the upper bedroom. Also, she swept the stair, and the front hall.

When she took the broom back to its place beside the kitchen stove, she looked at the alarm clock that Stewart Bodey had provided. It had stopped.

She stepped to the window. The sun was high. Putting on her coat again, she took the bundle of linen and silk that lay upon her bed, and started away.

"Oh, my," she said, as she reached the little bridge that led to the road. She turned and surveyed the shabby old house. "I don't want to go!"

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Hammock

Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

By HOWARD E. GARIS

Between two trees on the edge of the woods, not far from his hollow stump bungalow, Uncle Wiggily slung his hammock one day. He said he "slung" it, instead of "fastened" it, because, as he remarked:

"That is what a sailor would say, and some day I may be a sailor. Nobody but a landlubber would speak of hanging or fastening a hammock."

Well, anyhow, there, between two trees, was the hammock. It was slung by two ropes of grapevine and the hammock itself was made from intertwined honeysuckle vines.

Uncle Wiggily was sleeping in his hammock.

"And now that my hammock is in place," said Mr. Longears, "I will lie down, sleep a little and then be ready to go adventuring." So Uncle Wiggily slept and twinkled his pink nose.

As the bunny rabbit gentleman slept in his hammock the Woods Wolf crept through the forest and, seeing the sleeping rabbit, whispered:

"How I would like to eat him! But I dare not rush out now and snatch him from his hammock. If I did he would awaken and play some trick on me. I must play a trick on him. I know! I will gnaw his hammock ropes so he will fall to the ground suddenly. That will jar him and joggle him and awaken him so suddenly that he will be all in a daze, or kerflummoxed like, and I can easily catch him."

But when the Wolf stunk along to one of the trees to gnaw the grapevine rope that held one end of Uncle Wiggily's hammock the bad chap found the rope beyond the reach of his teeth. It was too high up on the tree.

"I know what I can do!" muttered the Wolf. "I will go to the Bushy Bear. He can rear up on his hind legs, claw the grapevine rope into shreds and then the hammock will fall. When it does the Bear and I will eat Uncle Wiggily."

The Wolf lost no time in hurrying to the den of the Bear and soon the two bad chaps were at the place where Uncle Wiggily was sleeping in his hammock slung between two trees.

"Now you claw one of the ropes into shreds so the hammock will fall!" whispered the Wolf. "Then, when Uncle Wiggily is all kerflummoxed from the bump he gets, we'll catch him."

"Very good!" growled the Bear. "I will go to the Bushy Bear. He can rear up on his hind legs, claw the grapevine rope into shreds and then the hammock will fall. When it does the Bear and I will eat Uncle Wiggily."

Up rose the Bear on his hind legs, making himself so tall he could easily reach the place where the grapevine rope was wound about the tree, holding up the honeysuckle vine hammock with the rabbit gentleman fast asleep in it. Then the Bear, with his strong claws, began to paw and scratch and scratch at the strands of rope to tear them apart.

Now about this time Uncle Butter, the goat gentleman, was roaming across the fields near the edge of the woods gathering cotton stuff for his wife to make a leather bed for him to sleep snugly and warm on when Winter came. Uncle Butter got his cotton from the pods of the milkweed plants; many of which were going to seed now in the fields. As he broke open the pods and took out the soft, fluffy, cotton stuff the goat gentleman packed it into a bag which he carried over his back.

When the bag was full Uncle Butter started toward the woods and as soon as he reached there he saw Uncle Wiggily asleep in the hammock. The goat also saw the Wolf hiding in the bushes, waiting for the Bear to claw down the hammock; and the goat also saw the Bear tearing away at the strands of grapevine rope.

At last the rope was nearly cut through by the Bear's claws. The hammock began to sag down slowly, getting ready to fall with a rush.

"How are you coming on?" whispered the Wolf.

"Fine!" growled the Bear. "Uncle Wiggily will get a hard bump in a minute. It will shake his liver pin out! Ha! Ha!"

"Good!" growled the Wolf.

Uncle Butter could hardly believe his eyes. But, as the goat watched the hammock, with the sleeping rabbit in, began to drop. And then, all of a sudden, Uncle Butter threw his bag of soft cotton stuff for his nest Winter's bed under the hammock, so the fluff-wuff came between Uncle Wiggily and the ground. And when the rabbit fell with the falling hammock he landed gently on the bag of cotton.

"Dear me! Is it morning already?" asked Uncle Wiggily, slowly waking up. "I had such a queer dream. I dreamed a Bear and a Wolf—"

"That was no dream!" blasted Uncle Butter. "The Bear and Wolf are real! But I'll fix them! I'll horn them!" and a moment later with his sharp horns the goat ran at the Wolf and Bear, who were very much surprised at what happened.

"Fooled again!" growled the Bear as he and the goat saw the soft bag of milkweed cotton on which the rabbit had fallen. "Fooled again!"

Then they ran to get away from the goat's horns and the rabbit was saved and he thanked Uncle Butter very much.

And if the coffee pot will give the milk pitcher a cup of tea when the front door comes to the back door's party, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's swing.

"The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel"

(Copyright)

TUESDAY, AUGUST 9, 1927

Menacing stars rule strongly to-day, according to astrology, which gives warning to be careful.

Except to buy land there should be extreme care where any sort of investment is involved, the seers declare.

Under this direction of the stars it is supposed to be uncommonly easy for unscrupulous persons to persuade women to risk their money.

While this configuration prevails the mind may be muddled and the judgment untrustworthy.

False reports of various sorts may be circulated where they will be eagerly accepted, when the stars are posted as they are to-day.

All important initiative should be the augury of a busy, happy year in trust, for conditions are thwarting and disappointing.

Merchants and manufacturers are to meet certain surprising conditions more or less depressing, it is prognosticated, but they will profit later.

Women and children are still subject to planetary influences that are more or less sinister and they should be especially safeguarded.

New ideas of many sorts are to be welcomed and inventors will benefit greatly in the coming year.

Persons whose birthdate is 11 have the augury of a busy, happy year in which it is better to enjoy the things possessed than to seek added treasures.

Children born on this day may have rather a struggle in life, but they have the promise of great success.

NEW HEADMASTER FOR UNIVERSITY SCHOOL HERE

Former Head of Shanghai
Public School Succeeds Rev.
W. W. Bolton at Mt. Tolmie

G. M. Billings, M.A., former principal of the Shanghai Public School for boys, succeeds Rev. W. W. Bolton as headmaster of University School. After forty years active connection with education in Victoria, Mr. Bolton asked to be relieved of the responsibilities of the principalship, and his request was granted with reluctance by the board of directors.

For twenty-one years Mr. Bolton carried the heavy duties devolving on a headmaster and now will continue as warden. Gerald Bolton will continue as managing director, so there will be no break in the policies that have governed the successful institution at Mount Tolmie.

Mr. Billings's connection with the school began in 1918 when he arrived from China to place a son at the institution, of which he is now the head. His interest in University School grew with the years, until his name was before the board of directors as successor to Mr. Bolton. He has returned to Shanghai to wind up his affairs and will be back in Victoria in due course to assume his new duties.

TALK ABOUT A FAMILY WEDDING!

You don't hear of many quadruple weddings but here is one in which three brothers and their sister were married recently at Birmingham. The principals were Dr. Lellias Kirby who was married to Miss Jean Harms of Aniston; Rev. Otis Kirby, whose bride was Miss Katherine Evans of Fairfield; Rev. Taylor Kirby who was married to Miss Lucretia Hope of Birmingham, and Miss Geneva Kirby, bride of Herbert Werner of Jersey City.

REALTORS FLOCK TO SEATTLE FOR BIG CONVENTION

Victoria Sending Strong Body of Delegates; Will Hear
Prominent Men

Men who have been through "boom" days and who have passed through arduous times before they finally entered the era of steady progress which exists to-day, will attend the twentieth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Seattle this week.

Realtors of the Pacific Northwest, from British Columbia, Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho commence their convention on Tuesday, the day before the national body gets started on its programme. This latter conference will include big business men from all over the continent, from Chicago, New York, San Francisco and the larger Canadian cities as well.

A strong delegation will go from this city. Many members of the Real Estate Board have expressed their intention of attending. Alfred Carmichael, this city's entry in the "home town description competition," has a five minute address prepared. Realtors from all parts will take part in this contest.

EXPERT TO SPEAK

Dr. Charles J. Bullock, chairman of the Harvard committee of economic research, Harvard University, and an authority on public finance and taxation, will be an outstanding speaker of the convention. His subject will be the increase of taxation in American cities in retrospect and prospect. Dr. Bullock will also lead a discussion on the present business outlook of the country, commencing on Thursday.

C. C. Hiest, Louisville, Kentucky, president of the National Association, is slated to tell the convention what experience is telling organized real estate men.

BROAD PROGRAMME

Harry H. Culver, president of the California Real Estate Association, will speak on the spirit of animation in real estate. Eighty other speakers will go before the three general sessions, nine teen divisional gatherings, and twelve special conferences which make up the broad programme. This announcement was contained in a letter to the Victoria board and all other of the 657 sister organizations on the continent. Indicating the growing trend towards scientific appraising of properties by experts, a competition has been planned in this connection as a part of the convention's programme. Appraisal committees of real estate boards of all parts will enter this contest.

WOMEN TO GATHER

Women who have taken a prominent place among real estate personages who take part in real estate business in any capacity, will meet in Seattle August 10 and 11 for the first national conference of women realtors ever to be held. It is a branch of the programme of the National Association convention.

These women are to be addressed by those prominent in their sphere, such as Ruby Lee Minar of Alexandria, Virginia, and Grace Perigo of San Francisco, both of whom are successful in their chosen lines, mainly subdivision and apartment construction and operation.

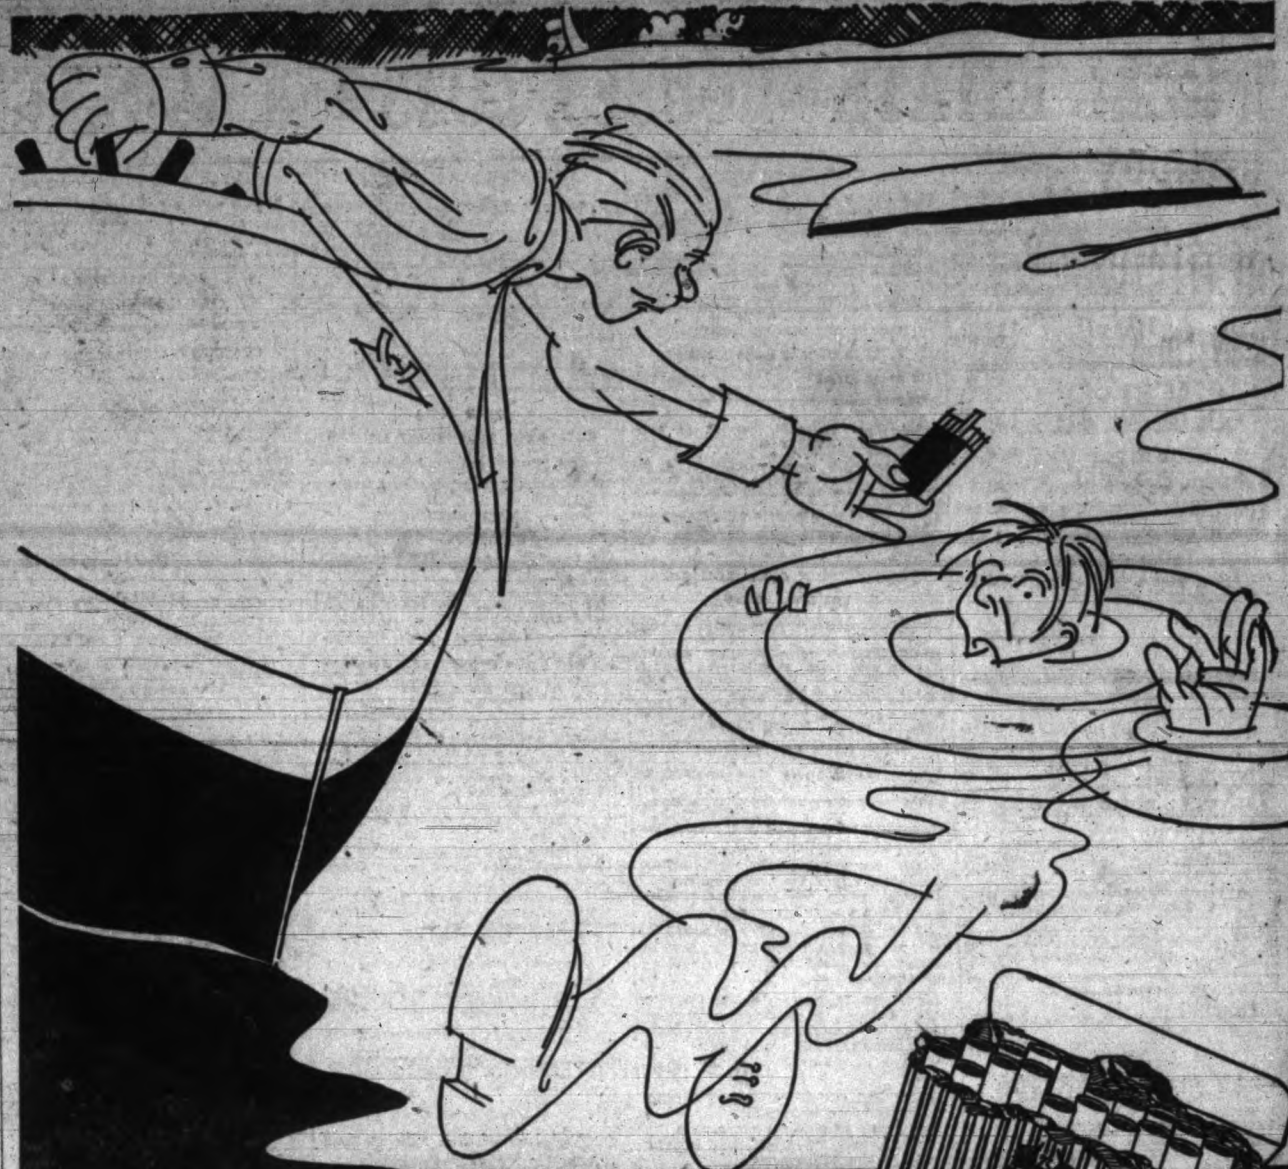

SHEEP CLASSES AT FAIR TO BE STRONG

Appeal is Made by Secretary
For Good Entry For Stock
Judging

The sheep industry which British Columbia has been striving to foster for many years past will receive attention at the Provincial Exhibition opening at the Willows August 22. Prizes are offered in classes for Romney, Marsh, Suffolk, Shropshire, Hampshire, Dorset Horn, South Down and Oxford Down and Cheviot sheep, and a good entry is anticipated in every class this year.

Vancouver Island competitors, it is anticipated, will offer strong competition to outside exhibitors. Among the Mainland competitors will be Messrs. Edwin A. Wells & Sons, who specialize in Cheviots.

From their Edenbank farm at Sardinia the same firm will also send other exhibits. Known as breeders of wonderful Ayrshire cattle, they will bid for honor in this class, and will also show a few Yorkshire hogs.

An appeal is made by the secretary, W. H. Mearns, for a good entry in the stock-judging competition. For the benefit of those not familiar with the competition, the rules are quoted as follows:

Judging will include heavy horses, light horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and swine.

No entry fee will be charged and no person will be allowed to judge in more than three sections.

Entries will be received by the secretary on the first day of the exhibition.

Twenty minutes will be the limit of time allowed for competition in each section.

In placing the awards the judges will allow fifty per cent for proper reasons and fifty per cent for placing. For those over twenty-one years making the largest number of points in any three sections—First, $12; second, $10; third, $8; fourth, $6. For under twenty-one years making largest number of points in any three sections—First, $12; second, $10; third, $8; fourth, $6. For boys and girls under eighteen years of age making largest number of points in any three sections—First, $12; second, $10; third, $8; fourth, $6.

FARM RETURNS GOOD

Preliminary figures of incomes on Canadian farms indicate that about $3,000 returned to each farm in the three Prairie provinces as revenue from agricultural production in 1926.

SAYWARD GIVES OLD TIME JAMBOREE TO NEWLY MARRIED PAIR

Sayward, Aug. 8.—The lower valley of the Salmon River was awakened on Sunday night by an awful clatter of hooters, cow bells, tin cans and every conceivable noise-making article that could be procured, and the surrounding hills re-echoed as a clamorous procession of overloaded cars wended its way towards the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Williams. It had become generally known that the newly married couple had arrived at their home during the afternoon and so a number of their friends arranged a regular jamboREE to show their kind regards and give them a rousing welcome to Say-ward. The house was crowded with well-wishers, and a very enjoyable time was spent, although the manner of their coming had somewhat alarmed the bride, being unaccustomed to this method of showing kindness.

Dr. Youlden of Victoria is here undertaking a survey of the teeth of the children for the Department of Public Health. It is two years since a dentist visited this district.
